

Increase in water rate requested

Illinois-American Water Company announced yesterday that it has filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission a request for a rate increase affecting the area served by the company.

R. W. Greaves, vice-president and manager of the company, said that the increase generated by the filed rates is required because of higher operating costs as well as the added investment in water facilities in the service area.

The filed rates would raise the average quarterly residential water bill in the high-service area from $27.20 to $30.02, or approximately three cents a day, and would raise the water bill for the minimum usage customer being served by a five-eighths inch meter from $16.32 to $16.08 per quarter, or less than two cents per day, Greaves explained.

In the low-service area, including the Quad-City area, the average residential bill would increase from $25.40 to $28.02, or approximately three cents per day. The minimum usage customer being served by a five-eighths inch meter would increase from $15.24 to $16.83, or less than two cents per day.

The annual overall requested increase in revenue would amount to approximately $1,335,000 to the company, he added.

No increase is being requested for public fire protection. The low-service area includes East St. Louis, the Quad-City area, Canton and Centerville townships and other locations west of the bluffs.

The high-service area includes Belleville, Fairview Heights, O'Fallon, Shiloh and Scott Air Force Base.

Due to steadily rising costs and additional investment in the system, the company has not been able to realize the earnings allowed by the Illinois Commerce Commission in prior orders. The company's request for increased rates is based on a test year ending Dec. 31, 1978, Greaves said.

"Sizable increases in the company's operating expenses and a reduction in Bar sanitary board use of local taxes

A circuit court order halting the financial income to and freezing spending by the Metro-East Sanitary District was issued at 9:45 a.m. Wednesday.

Local officials had filed suit seeking an injunction to keep the Madison County treasurer from disbursing tax funds from Madison County to the sanitary district.

A hearing on a permanent injunction is set for Friday, May 4.

The suit is part of a county-wide "rebellion" against the St. Clair County-dominated sanitary district, which developed after Tuesday's sanitary district board of trustees' meeting.

The Granite City Council Tuesday night gave its permission for Granite City Attorney Lance Callis to file a joint lawsuit with other area cities and townships asking the circuit court for an injunction to halt disbursements of 1978 taxes (now being collected) to the levee district, until the Illinois Supreme Court rules on which county has legal control of the district.

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler said at the city council meeting, "The levee (sanitary) district has been spending a lot of our money, almost all in St. Clair County. The latest figures on taxes show Madison County is paying the largest portion of taxes to the districts, but are getting very little service."

"The levee board members from Madison County are being wronged and the citizens of Madison County are being wronged. The board members feel this will help bring it to a head," Schuler stated.

He added, "The Supreme Court apparently has reached a decision, but it has not been passed down yet."

State Rep. Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) said in Springfield Tuesday that he has been attempting to determine why the Supreme Court decision, if one has been reached, has not been passed down or put in writing.

He said he has confirmed the court heard the case Nov. 21 and Justice Joseph H. Goldenhersh removed himself from the case because he is a former counsel for the levee district.

Wolf stated, "I talked to Judge Roy O. Gulley, administrator of the Supreme Court and he said it was highly unusual that this case did not receive an opinion in January and even more unusual that there was no decision by the court's next session in March. The court meets several times a year."

Wolf indicated that with Justice Goldenhersh having removed himself from the case, there is a possibility the other six justices may have a 3-3 split in opinion on some or all of the case, thus causing the delay. "I do not think that is the case, but it is possible and might be why the opinion has not been coming out of the court."

"I told Judge Gulley we would like to know why the decision has been delayed, because if there is no chance it will be decided soon, we can move in other directions that we already have planned," Rep. Wolf said. He added that Gulley pledged he would do his utmost to determine the status of the decision and report back to Wolf in the next "day or two."

Wolf said several plans are being studied to stop Madison County from paying most of the sanitary district's bills, while receiving only a small percentage of the services. Wolf added

Quad-Cityans try to fire levee executive

By GARY SCHNEIDER
 Press-Record Staff Writer

In an intricate chess game of bi-county politics, the Madison County members of the Metro-East Sanitary District Board tried the district's executive director Tuesday morning and the St. Clair County trustees responded by giving one of their members the authority to sign paychecks and other district checks.

The power plays were part of a lengthy battle to determine which county should have control of the sanitary district; an issue which was heard by the Illinois Supreme Court Nov. 21, but the court's decision has never been announced.

Under legislation establishing the sanitary district having the highest assessed valuation is to have three members on the board of trustees and the other county is to have two members.

Madison County surpassed St. Clair County in assessed valuation last year, but the St. Clair County trustees then filed suit, challenging the constitutionality of the use of assessments to determine the majority on the board.

A St. Clair circuit judge ruled that St. Clair County should continue to have three members on the board, but that Madison County also could have three members.

The court battle to determine which "third trustee" is a legal voting member of the board was taken to the state Supreme Court, but no decision has ever been announced. State Rep. Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) contacted Madison County members of the sanitary district before Tuesday morning's meeting and told them he has spoken to the clerk of the Supreme Court and has asked which judge is responsible for writing the opinion of the court. The opinion should have been written shortly after the case was heard Nov. 21, Wolf contended.

Wolf told the Press-Record from the floor of the Illinois House of Representatives, "We're either going to get out of this darn district, or I'm going to have a full investigation into the district's operations."

Madison County members of the sanitary district board indicated after Tuesday's meeting that they feel the Supreme Court's decision must be favorable to Madison County, or it would have been announced sooner. Madison County should have assumed control of the levee district in 1977, when the assessed valuation of the county surpassed the assessed valuation of St. Clair County.

The amount of taxes paid also reversed in 1977. In 1976, taxes collected (from the 1975 tax year), totaled $875,363 from St. Clair County and $937,307 from Madison County.

The reverse was true in taxes collected in 1977 as Madison County paid $955,599 to the levee district and St. Clair County paid $690,749.

In 1978, Madison County paid $981,271 in taxes and St. Clair County paid only $602,885, figures show.

"It just proves we are paying more than St. Clair County by more than a three-to-two ratio, yet we are getting nothing from it," Board Member Walter

"Shang" Greathouse of Granite City said.

At Tuesday morning's sanitary district meeting, Board President Russell Robinson of Granite City questioned several recent actions by district employees, including pumping out water from a construction site into a ditch, presumably for the contractor of the project.

Greathouse then contended such occurrences are common and he said he did not feel Robinson's demands were being carried out.

"We laid off 12 people (three weeks ago) and they arrived again Monday and were sent away. Someone called them back that Thursday and they got paid for Good Friday, which they didn't work and for Easter Monday, which they didn't work. To me, that's sheer stupidity," Greathouse said at the meeting. Chief of Operations James Spanos said the workers were needed that Thursday due to a five and one-half inch rain and a break in the Harding Ditch in St. Clair County.

Greathouse contended the ditch had a break for six weeks and nothing can be done until the water level drops. Board Member Omar Brumitt of Cahokia accused Greathouse of "making a grandstand play," and said the same thing would have happened if the break had been in Madison County.

Greathouse then said he is tired of money being spent without the board's approval and made a motion to fire Executive Director Wendell Wheadon.

The three Madison County trustees then voted in favor of the motion and the St. Clair County trustees voted against it. Robinson, Greathouse and David Bergfield, the Madison County trustees, then walked out of the meeting.

On his way out the door, Robinson stated, "Let the record show that we don't know if what we just did is legal or illegal, because I don't know which members are legal. But I am sure, we will find out after today."

"I'm sure someone in Springfield will decide after today," Robinson concluded as he walked out.

Brumitt then said the meeting would continue, with Brumitt serving as vice chairman. Robinson stuck his head back through the doorway and said state law does not allow for naming a vice-chairman.

Brumitt said he would act as president pro-tem and would continue the meeting. Wheadon told the three St. Clair County trustees there is a need for a "back-up system so the financial operations of the district can proceed if one man (the president) is out of town."

Wheadon said he felt the vice-chairman should be empowered to sign paychecks and other district checks when the president is unavailable. Board Member Robert Eastern of East St. Louis then made a motion that the board's vice-chairman be empowered to sign district checks when the president is unavailable, "or if the president should refuse to sign them."

"This needs to be done. I can see what is going on. You can see what is going on," Eastern said.

Board Member John Erhardt of Washington Park suggested the motion be held for a vote of the full board, but Brumitt denied the request and the trustees voted 3-0 to give Brumitt authority to sign checks. They then adjourned.

After the meeting, Robinson stated, "They can't do that. It's not according to statute. They better not put those checks through the bank."

Agricultural land protection areas proposed

The Illinois House Agriculture Committee has passed House Bill 1184, which provides for the establishment of agricultural conservation and protection areas. It would give a means by which agricultural land could be protected and enhanced as a viable segment of the state's economy, according to Rep. Michael Slape.

The bi-partisan sponsored bill would allow a landowner(s) the opportunity to create an agricultural area within a county, providing the area contained a minimum of 500 acres.

Subject to County Board approval, the area — once created — would be established for 10 years. The area would be exempt from special taxes imposed on the land after its creation.

The representative said, "Agriculture in many parts of the state is under urban pressure from expanding metropolitan areas. This pressure creates high costs for public services, stimulates land speculation, causes farm taxes to rise, and discourages investments in farm improvements."

"As a result, much agricultural land is in jeopardy. The purpose of HB 1184 is to provide a way for this land to be protected as an economic and environmental resource for our economy."

Park development discussed; Bennett sworn in; Moss cites village growth

The outgoing Pontoon Beach Village Board Tuesday night heard a presentation by the David Davis Associates consulting firm on the state's Land and Water Conservation (Lawson) program, and discussed matching funds which are available for park development. No official action was taken. Corrections were made to the village's traffic code, setting the speed limits at 30 miles-per-hour on Lake Drive and 35 m.p.h. on Pontoon Road. The actions correct oversights when the traffic ordinance was approved recently. Outgoing Board President Floyd David Moss administered the oath of office to newly-elected village officials, including the new president, Paul Bennett, the re-elected clerk, Mary Warren, and trustees Glen Wilson, Loren Madison and Keith Biggs, the latter two being re-elected trustees. Moss then recessed to executive session for a discussion on personnel. Moss made a closing statement as he retired from the board, saying, "I have enjoyed being mayor in the past six years and working with the board. "We've had some agreements. We've had some disagreements. We've had bad times, but, overall, I can say that I feel the village has prospered in the last six years and the village is in better condition now than it was six years ago when the board of trustees and I took over office. "I'd really like to thank the trustees who have worked with me and helped me and helped make my terms in office a success. I appreciate all that each and every one of you gentlemen has done for me. It means a lot to me and will mean a lot to me in the future. "The clerk, I appreciate all that she's put up with, and it has been a lot. She has put up with more than my wife here. "Again, I appreciate all that you have done for me. I think that the village has grown and prospered in the past six years. I'd like to again thank each and every one of you," Moss concluded.

Mayor Mary Jane adding a new dimension to state politics

SPRINGFIELD — "What about that gal in Chicago?" That's the question that was asked beneath the Statehouse dome as far to the north, Mary Jane Byrne, 44, plodded resolutely through the lingering snow toward center election as mayor of Chicago.

Now a new mayor of Chicago, a woman at that and an unknown quantity, has added a new dimension to a legislative session already recognized as one of the most complicated and demanding in Illinois history.

The first impact of Byrne's amazing triumph over Democratic incumbent Michael Bilandic took a while to be felt in Springfield. For a while some traditionalists took hope in speculation from Chicago that the Republican candidate, millionaire businessman Wallace Johnson, might have a chance and that something which Downstate might consider normal might yet be restored.

But alas for them, Johnson turned out to be the biggest joke in politics since Harold Stassen.

For the ash blonde whom Chicagoans hardly ever see the man who gave her a start in politics, the late Mayor Richard J. Daley. And the royal political inheritance includes an enormous clout in the workings of the Illinois Legislature. It could not be otherwise for the nation's second largest city (New York No. 1 and Los Angeles No. 3) holds almost 3.5 million people or close to a third of Illinois' approximately 11.5 million total. Its vast economic and political power affects the lives of Illinoisans living far beyond its borders. Furthermore, the geographical and political realities of this state are such that resolving any really big issue in the Legislature requires some sort of compromise (or deal) between Chicago and the rest of the state. This is always accomplished by negotiations between the governor, who might be considered the Downstate suburban representative, and the mayor, who speaks for that complex and teeming community that might well be considered a state within a state.

It has been that way between Gov. James R. Thompson and Mike Bilandic and it has been that way between Dick Daley and the various governors who held office during his time.

Indeed, one of the most successful liaisons of all existed between Thompson and Bilandic during the first two years of their respective administrations. But Byrne is a whole new ball game, and whether she and Thompson can develop some sort of working relationship remains to be seen.

Unlike Daley, who served some years as a productive member of the state Senate, Byrne has no legislative background whatever. Her interests have been pretty well confined to the city of Chicago. Her last job under Daley, from which she was fired by Bilandic, was as Chicago's commissioner of consumer sales at $41,600 a year.

It would also appear that Byrne will have difficulty establishing the close working relationship that has existed between Chicago mayor and the Democratic leadership in the Legislature, always dominated by Chicagoans.

The top Chicago guns, Democratic Senate leader Philip J. Rock and House leader Michael Madigan, have taken a cautious approach toward Byrne. Both are considered part of the Democratic regular establishment, toppled by Byrne in the primary. They have made some tentative overtures to her since the primary, but in the meantime have been proceeding on their own. Healing of the primary wounds between Byrne and the regular organization may take some time. Meanwhile the legislative process must grind on and someone will have to speak for Chicago on such sensitive matters as the distribution of state school aid, the proposed gasoline tax increase, roads rehabilitation, limitations on government spending and many others.

Already stirring Statehouse speculation is how strong a position Chicago's first woman mayor will take on the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) issue so long stalled in the Legislature.

In previous years a strong push by a Chicago mayor — especially with a Democratic-controlled Legislature — could have meant prompt approval.

Jane Byrne's surprising arrival on the Illinois political and governmental scene raises many questions for the Legislature. She has already had a tremendous impact on the city of Chicago. Her statewide role is yet to be determined.

BURGLARY ON SPRUCE Items valued at more than $2,000 were stolen during a burglary at the home of Linda Constant, 1637 Spruce St., it was discovered at 3:05 a.m. Wednesday. Entry was believed gained by crawling through an unlocked window.

Bonds for mortgage program ready to be signed in New York

About $10 million in revenue bonds which will be used for low-interest mortgage housing loans in Granite City may be sold by May 11, the Granite City Council was told Tuesday night.

The council gave its permission to Mayor Paul Schuler, his administrative assistant Arvil Taylor and City Attorney Lance Callis to go to New York City from Monday through Wednesday of next week to sign the bonds.

Costs incurred during the trip will be reimbursed from the proceeds of the bond sale, Schuler told the council.

Callis said the bonds will be signed at the Standard and Poor's Exchange and will be prepared for sale by May 11. Money to finance low-interest home mortgages then should be available within a very short period of time.

Several mortgage loan companies and two local banks have joined the program and will be offering the home loans at 2.25 to 2.5 percent interest for homes costing up to $80,000.

Families earning up to $40,000 a year may qualify for mortgage loans under the proposed program. Tentative guidelines are subject to revision during the final planning stages.

The city hopes to sell $10 million in bonds, of which about $8.5 million will be available to assure home loans in the city. The bonds will be tax-free to the bond buyer, allowing a lower interest to be charged to the mortgage borrower.

Conventional mortgage rates now are 9.5 to 10 percent or higher, city officials said.

Truckers warned not to haul steel

Two tractor-trailer drivers who were hauling steel to the Tri-City Regional Port area reported they were harassed by several men in a pickup truck early Wednesday.

Ray Morgan, Dupo, told police two to three men had thrown rocks at his truck and threatened him as he was warning his truck into the port from Route 3 at 20th Street. Morgan alleged the men yelled he should not be hauling steel during the truck strike and threatened him.

"They left in a late-model blue pickup truck with a camper," he said. Morgan's truck had a few dents from the thrown rocks, police said.

Steve Enbrich, Dupo, then told police he stopped his truck for a train on Niedringhaus Avenue at the railroad crossing about 12:30 a.m. Wednesday and a truck by the same description stopped, four men got out, came to the cab of his truck and asked if he was hauling steel.

When he told them he was, one man stated, "No you're not. Not anymore. We're on strike for a local union in Pittsburgh, Pa.) and we're giving you fair warning to stay out," Enbrich told police.

The men then left in the blue pickup truck west on Niedringhaus Avenue, he said. It appeared the license plate was covered with a rag or something, he noted.

Pontoon board seeks Patrick resignation

The Pontoon Beach Village Board Tuesday night asked for the resignation of Donald Patrick, director of the Pontoon Beach-Nameoki area office of Coordinated Youth Services, because Patrick had run unsuccessfully for village board president against the ultimately successful party.

Patrick has said he has not determined what he will do about the request. The village government does not control CVS.

The letter seeking his resignation was given to Patrick during an executive session of the village board. The text of that letter follows:

"Mr. Patrick, the president and board of trustees of the village of Pontoon Beach hereby present the following charges against (you), to wit:

"During the recent election in which Mr. Patrick was a candidate for president, he repeatedly brought charges against the members of the board of trustees, which make it impossible for Mr. Patrick to continue to work under the supervision of said board.

"During the same election, Mr. Patrick repeatedly brought charges against the chief of police, Joseph Bennett Jr., which have so seriously deteriorated the working relationship needed between the chief and a person in Mr. Patrick's position, to where presently there cannot be any workable relationship.

"For the above and additional similar reasons, it becomes essential to correct this situation by asking Mr. Patrick to submit his resignation. The letter concludes, 'It is signed, 'Board of Trustees, Village of Pontoon Beach,' with an attested signature by Village Clerk Mary E. Warren.

Trustee Duane Skinner made a motion after the executive session that the board adopt an agreement with Patrick and authorize the board president to carry it out.

Patrick said Wednesday he did not make any agreements with the board in the executive session and does not know if he will resign.

"I am concerned about the Coordinated Youth program in Pontoon Beach and do not want to see it treated like a political football or my position used for another patronage spot. I will do what is best for the program as soon as I and the Coordinated Youth board determine the best action," Patrick told the Press-Record.

The village board has some control over the Coordinated Youth Services office in the village since space in the village hall is donated free of charge for the office.

The village also is asked each year to make a donation to help support the office's activities, Patrick explained.

"thoughtfulness, always"

SKILLED TOUCH is demonstrated by one of the Artist Blacksmith Association members at a national gathering of "village smithy" descendants here last week.

Burly blacksmiths emphasize artistry

By BRENDA MURPHY

"Under a spreading chestnut tree
The village smithy stands;
The smith, a mighty man is he,
With large and sinewy
hands;
And the muscles of his brawny arms
Are strong as iron bands."

—By Henry Wadsworth
Longfellow

The village blacksmith, a man of iron, toiling day in and day out to forge the tools of the world. Alas, but is he a dying breed?

No, said members of the Artist Blacksmith Association of North America and area blacksmiths as they converged on Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville last week to attend an ornamental ironwork symposium and exhibition.

According to Tom Gipe, assistant professor of art and design at SIUE, more than 60 blacksmiths attended the symposium, coming from as far away as England. The U.S. was represented coast-to-coast with blacksmiths from Washington to West Virginia.

Richard Quinell of Leatherhead, England, owner of Rowhurst Forge, believes the blacksmithing trade is "extremely vigorous with those that love iron. It's a creative, interpretative art," he said. Jack Andrews of Paoli, Penn., owner of the Diamond Forge, said blacksmithing has "national and international interest."

He said the blacksmith can produce iron products ranging from the practical, such as hammers and kitchen tools, to the decorative, such as ornamental iron for buildings and jewelry. "The only limitation is the imagination," he said.

Gipes said blacksmithing is taught at SIUE as "an art form" and students are very interested in it. Blacksmithing is not restricted to males these days. "A third or more of the students in my classes are women," Andrews said. He said a lack of physical strength is not a hindrance to women blacksmiths. "Blacksmithing requires great hand, eye, and mind coordination," he said.

Across the ocean, blacksmithing has also been invaded by women. "There is the idea that blacksmithing is unfeminine, but I don't think it has to be at all," said Quinell, of England.

The majority of blacksmiths attending the symposium were bearded, which led to the question of beards being required for blacksmithing.

"A lot of blacksmiths have beards," Quinell said. He cited a photograph of a blacksmith's organization in England in which one woman was surrounded by a group of bearded men. The caption listed the woman's name and said the viewer could easily identify her because she had no beard.

The symposium included a demonstration by Stuart Hill, of the Clayton Forge in England. He spent approximately an hour forging one piece of iron to form an ornamental knot.

"Blacksmithing can take a long time," Quinell said. "We have gates that take 800 hours."

Throughout the demonstration, eager blacksmiths looked on and asked questions of the techniques the English smithy used. Hill gladly responded and only asked that when members of his audience forged the knot that they publicize it as a "Clayton knot."

"Irrespective of language or culture, blacksmiths are friendly all over the world," Quinell said of this group of his peers.

BREAK IN TRAILER

A burglar entered the house trailer of Harry Derickson, 2804 Emzee St., by breaking a jalousie window and also got into a garage at the rear of the property by removing a hasp from the door. It was reported Monday. It was undetermined what had been taken.

$100 FIRE LOSS

Fire started by an overheated humidifier motor caused an estimated $100 damage at the home of Leonard Fowler, 2423 Terminal Ave. last week. The fire had been extinguished by the time firemen arrived.

Toll-free number for deaf people

Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon has installed a special toll-free number equipped to handle requests and complaints from hearing-impaired residents throughout the state.

This information will be exchanged through a telecommunications device, used in conjunction with a standard telephone.

Both questions and answers are displayed above the keyboard. "This is a statewide service which has been needed for some time to assist the hearing-impaired in solving common problems related to the secretary of state's office," Dixon said.

"These include facts and information on vehicle registration, driver licenses and vehicle titles."

The toll-free number is 800-252-2904 for this service.

Plant donated to Southwest Port District

The former Obea-Nester glass container facility is being donated to the Southwest Regional Port District for redevelopment, it was announced by Delmar E. Valine Sr., Port District president.

The plant, located at 2000 Broadway in East St. Louis, consists of 650,000 square feet of factory and warehouse space, on 31 acres. It is being donated by Indian Head, Inc., parent company of Obea-Nester, to the port district, which will seek to develop it as an industrial park to provide employment for the plant's former employees and the region.

The Southwest Regional Port District operates with the support of the Illinois Department of Transportation. A major part of the district's activities consists of "recycling" unused industrial facilities.

It now has 17 separate companies operating on vacated property in the East St. Louis area, with over 500 jobs resulting.

SUPERWALK participants this week include from the left, Melissa Singer, 8, Mary Smith, 9, Wendy Johnson, 9, Kayla Krug, 10, and Cindy Singer, 10. The five are pictured "ready and waiting" to walk for the March of Dimes. Arthur Menendez was general chairman of the 1979 Walkathon, in which sponsors paid, based on the distance walked.

High nutrition on low budget

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

In these days of soaring food prices, it has become increasingly difficult for the homemaker to serve meals that are high in nutritional content while staying within the family food budget.

Serving foods that are high in nutrition and low in cost may not be as difficult as you think, however. Many of the higher priced foods are not the most nutritional.

For example... avoid buying pre-sweetened cereals and imitation fruit drinks. The non-sweetened varieties, and usually are higher in nutrition.

When selecting juices, look for the frozen concentrates or the canned, unsweetened fruit juices. Other types of fruit drinks have more sugar and fewer vitamins.

Also, it is a good idea to avoid juice substitutes, such as the powdered, instant type drinks or soda pop.

Milk, of course, is still an important part of a nutritional diet. You can save money, however, by purchasing either 2 percent or skim milk. Both have the same vitamin, mineral and protein content as whole milk, and cost less.

Instant, powdered milk also has the same vitamin, mineral and protein content as whole milk, and is good to use for drinking, or in cooking.

If your family does not like to drink the instant milk, you can still save money without sacrificing nutrition by using it in baking, in soups, sauces, gravies, puddings, in making pancakes or waffles, in French toast batter, etc. The possibilities are numerous.

When planning snacks, for children or adults, purchase foods such as peanut butter, raw vegetables or fresh fruits. Items like potato chips, snack cakes and candy are low in nutrition and high in cost.

Cheese, cut into wedges, strips or any imaginative shape you can think of, is an attractive, nutritious snack that costs less than many of the highly sweetened snack foods.

Raw vegetables that are good for snacking include celery, cauliflower, tomatoes or carrots. Carrots can be cut into strips, curls, rounds, etc., to make them more attractive, especially to children. And, stuffing celery with peanut butter adds to its nutritional content.

A tray of raw cauliflower, tomatoes, celery, carrots or whatever other raw vegetable you may enjoy, served with a creamy cheese dip makes an attractive, delicious, nutritious meal on a hot, summer day. And you won't have to cook in a hot kitchen.

Fresh fruits, of course, are good for snacking. Oranges, apples, even grapefruit wedges make good "nibbles" or lunch box treats. Peanuts or other types of nuts, raisins or other dried fruits, even pickles are some other nutritious snacks.

Another area where the homemaker can save money without skimping on nutrition is in buying baby foods.

The best buys is strained baby foods are the plain fruits and vegetables rather than mixtures such as meat "dinners," meat and vegetable combinations or fruit desserts. These combination foods cost about twice as much (per gram of protein) as the plain meats and vegetables.

It is more economical to buy baby cereal in boxes rather than jars. It is a simple matter to mix the dry, boxed cereal with a little of the baby's formula.

These are just a few of the ideas which should enable you to give your family high nutritional content at the lowest possible cost.

If you want more information about nutrition, write to: Genevieve Anthony, R.D., Nutritionist, Illinois Department of Public Health, 525 W. Jefferson St., Springfield, Ill. 62761.

Elks to salute youth

A proclamation has been signed this week by Mayor Paul Schuler designating the first week of May as Elks National Youth Week. Six young people, three from GCHS North and three from GCHS South, will participate in a special program being arranged by Granite City Elks Lodge 1083.

The students will be "officials for a day" and will fill various positions in the city government.

Youth Week was established by the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks to give the public the opportunity to honor the young citizens of this community and of the country.

According to David Whitsell, chairman of the youth activities committee, the students will assume the city government positions on Wednesday, May 2. A luncheon honoring the students will precede the "take-over" of the Elks Lodge in addition to the students.

Coordinator of the day-long event is Mrs. Laverne Corbett, director of guidance at Granite City High School South.

Hospital costs reflect more and better care

By MARTIN FELDSTEIN
The administration describes the control of hospital costs as a part of its overall anti-inflation strategy.

This represents a misunderstanding of the true nature of the rise of hospital costs and the general problem of inflation.

For the economy as a whole, inflation means the increase in the cost of buying an unchanged bundle of goods and services; this precisely what the consumer price index tries to measure.

In contrast, the relatively rapid rise in the cost of a day of hospital care reflects the rapidly changing hospital product.

The most obvious thing about hospital care today is that it is very different from what it was 25 years ago. Today's care is more complex, more sophisticated and more expensive.

The cost of hospital care rises more rapidly than the price level in general because patients and their doctors are no longer choosing the same old product but are buying a different and much more expensive product.

The rapid rise of hospital costs is, therefore, not a form of price inflation but represents an increase in the quantity of hospital services that are packed into a day of hospital care.

Reducing the rise of hospital costs means curtailing the quantity of those services and, thereby, the quality of hospital care.

The so-called "savings" to which the administration points would really be only a force reduction in the quantity and quality of hospital services that patients could buy.

Some of us would, of course, be at least partially compensated for this reduction in care by a lower cost of insurance and a reduction in the taxes needed to finance Medicare and Medicaid.

But the aged and the poor who depend on Medicare and Medicaid would suffer a cut in the quality of their health care without any compensating increase in their spendable incomes.

Are these really the groups that should bear the heaviest burden of reducing the rise of hospital costs?

Moreover, the penalties for violating the so-called mandatory limits are too draconian to be enforceable.

Denying a full reimbursement from Medicare, Medicaid and leaving a punitive 150 percent tax on other "excess" insurance revenues would rapidly exhaust the small reserves of hospitals that did not or could not comply. Many local nonprofit hospitals could be forced into bankruptcy within one or two years.

The administration's proposal is silent on what would happen if these hospitals reached the verge of bankruptcy. Would the government really force them to close?

Would it instead nationalize them or force them onto the budgets of state or local governments?

Or would community political pressures result in administrative exceptions that would vitiate the controls?

I believe that as long as strong financial incentives for higher spending remain, it will be politically impossible to restrain them by government controls.

Hospitals can also circumvent the effect of regulation by changing their behavior in a number of ways that can only be described as wasteful distortions that produce the appearance of compliance.

By admitting more patients whose conditions require relatively short stays or relatively less nursing or laboratory services, a hospital could appear to reduce the rise in its cost per case.

By reorganizing to spin off services like pathology or laboratory testing, a hospital might also be able to reduce its adjusted cost per case.

The totally inadequate system of hospital accounting makes such circumventions extremely difficult to prevent and a potential source of endless litigation.

Although the administration claims that regulations would reduce waste, experience suggests that hospital controls are more likely to be wasteful and raise costs.

The bureaucratic complexity of regulating the costs of 6,000 hospitals is frightening.

And what would it actually achieve even if it could be fully successful? The administration's calculations indicate that the total so-called saving by the year 1984—including the reduced direct spending for hospital services, the lower insurance costs, and the reduced taxes—would be only $138 for a family of four with a median income of $9,000.

The reduced spending amounts to less than one-half of one percent of the total cost of the health care system. It would increase the overall growth in income between now and 1984 by less than 2 percent.

And this reduced spending does not represent an equal real saving but is just compensation for giving up a corresponding amount of hospital services.

In terms of inflation, holding down hospital costs to the full extent that the administration hopes would reduce the cumulative inflation over the next five years by an almost unnoticeably small amount.

For example, a 6 percent average annual inflation rate would mean that five years from now the price level would rise 33.8 percent; hospital cost controls that achieve anything less than a 33.8 percent reduction in the administration is seeking would reduce this 33.8 percent to about 33.4 percent.

Regulation is inappropriate because it does not deal with the real cause of the problem.

Hospital care has become much more sophisticated and therefore more expensive because the public and their doctors now demand such care.

The primary reason for the increasing demand for expensive care has been the growth of insurance.

There is now substantial evidence that patients, guided by their doctors, demand more services and more expensive services when a large part of the cost is offset by insurance.

Some simply but striking numbers will illustrate what the growth of insurance has done.

In 1950, when the average cost per patient day was $16, private insurance and government programs paid for half of hospital bills. This meant that, on average, the net cost to a patient for a day of care was about $8.

By 1979, many hospitals will have a cost per day of $250. But with 90 percent of this cost paid by public and private insurance, the net cost to the patient will be only $25.

Moreover, since the general consumer price level has roughly tripled since 1950, this $25 in 1979 can only buy about as much as $8 could in 1950.

The growth of insurance means that, in real terms, the net cost to the patient at the time of illness has not changed at all during the past 30 years. As a result, consumer demand maintains the pressure for an ever-increasing expenditure on hospital care.

Why has the American public bought such comprehensive insurance, much of it "first dollar" coverage that provides relatively little protection while contributing substantially to the rise of hospital costs?

The answer lies in the tax treatment of health insurance premiums.

Government policies encourage the purchase of additional health insurance by tax subsidies that now cost the Treasury more than $10 billion a year.

Individuals can deduct about half of premiums that they pay for health insurance.

Much more important, employer payments for insurance are excluded from the taxable income of the employee as well as the employer. These employee payments are also not subject to Social Security taxes or state income taxes.

Even for a relatively low income family, the tax laws provide a substantial incentive to take more health insurance and lower wages.

Because of federal and state taxes, a married man who earns $10,000 a year will take home less than $65 for each $100 that the employer adds to his gross wage.

If the employer buys health insurance instead, the full $100 can be used to pay the premium and no tax is paid. The dollar then buys the individual more than 50 percent more in health services if paid through an insurance premium than if paid in wages to the individual who thus buys his care directly.

For workers in higher tax brackets, the incentive is even greater.

Increasing the extent to which individuals pay directly for their own hospital care would introduce a cost-consciousness that would limit the future rise in hospital costs.

My calculations indicate that even a relatively small increase—from the present 10 percent to 14 percent—in these copayment rates would be sufficient to achieve the administration's goals.

This increase in the average coinsurance rate could be achieved by different combinations of changes in the coinsurance rules applied in public and private insurance.

Even if Medicare and Medicaid are left unchanged, this increased coinsurance rate could be achieved by a relatively modest rise in the private coinsurance rate.

Patients with private insurance currently have an average coinsurance rate of approximately 18 percent; increasing this to 24 percent would be sufficient to raise the overall coinsurance rate to the required 14 percent.

This small increase in the private coinsurance rate could be achieved by removing or reducing the existing tax subsidy for insurance coverage that is regarded as excessive.

For example, employers might be allowed to deduct the cost of health insurance only for "qualified insurance plans" that meet certain standards—for example, a minimum coinsurance rate of 30 percent on all hospital bills below some catastrophic ceiling.

There are a variety of other ways in which the existing tax subsidy for excessive insurance could be modified to encourage the use of higher coinsurance rates.

Reducing the tax subsidies for excessive health insurance would get directly at the basic cause of the rapid rise in hospital costs.

The administration's goals of limiting future costs would be achieved without the cumbersome bureaucracy and without regulation's distorting effects on the behavior of hospitals.

WHEADON GETS THE MESSAGE. Wendell Wheadon, executive director of the Metro-East Sanitary District, seated at lower right, attempts to hide his surprise as Madison County members of the sanitary district's board of trustees attempt to fire him Tuesday in Washington Park. A three-to-three tie followed and the Madison County trustees walked out of the meeting, saying it will be up to the courts to decide if the firing is legal or illegal. The St. Clair County trustees then voted 3-0 to give Vice-President Omar Brumitt of Cahokia the authority to sign paychecks and other district checks in the absence of Board President Russell Robinson of Granite City or in the event that Robinson refuses to sign checks. that Madison County officials' do not care whether the district is separated along county lines or whether Madison County is given control of the district, but said action must be taken so this county receives a fair percentage of the services for which it pays.

Wolf said if efforts to resolve the disparity are not successful, he will call for a full investigation into the sanitary district's operations.

"For example, six years ago, the levee district put in drainage trunk lines in Cahokia, which were to be turned over to Cahokia for maintenance. They did the same for Granite City, Cahokia, however, never accepted the lines, leaving it in the levee district's lap."

"These Cahokia sewers alone have cost Madison County hundreds of thousands of dollars and I do not think it was a legal expense. The levee district should not have been involved in this. I wouldn't mind having St. Clair County pay for our sewers," Wolf added.

He said it also should be investigated why the sanitary district employees from St. Clair County often have 38 hours of overtime a week and none of the Madison County employees need overtime.

"It just seems to me," Wolf said, "that Madison County has the same rains, the same ground water table and the same drainage problems as St. Clair County, and yet our workers do not require any overtime and theirs require great amounts of overtime."

Callis filed the request for an injunction to freeze the sanitary district's operations at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in Edwardsville on behalf of Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler, Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk, Chouteau Township Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks and Nameoki Township Supervisor Harold Davis.

At 9:45 a.m. Wednesday, Associate Judge Philip Rarick heard arguments from Callis on the suit filed by the local officials and issued the restraining order, effective immediately.

It prohibits the sanitary district and Madison County officials from proceeding to collect tax assessments levied upon land in the Metro-East

Sanitary District, from making any additional assessments, issuing or selling bonds in anticipation of any assessments, or from using or expending any money from anticipation warrants already issued and restraining and enjoining Michael Henkhaus (Madison County treasurer) and James Barton (county supervisor of assessments) from proceeding to collect tax assessments levied upon lands of the Metro-East Sanitary District, from making any additional assessments, and from paying over to the Metro-East Sanitary District, its agents or officers, any funds collected from tax assessments."

Callis said he believes the court order will effectively freeze all operations of the sanitary district until the hearing on the permanent injunction before Judge Rarick at 9:30 a.m. Friday, May 4 in Edwardsville.

"One thing is for sure. They will not be able to meet this payroll with their funds tied up," Callis commented. The text of yesterday's court proceedings is presented on Page 7 of today's Press-Record.

water sales have depleted the company's earnings," said Greaves.

"The company, like all other business enterprises, has suffered as a result of the inflation which the country is experiencing, which has caused significant increases in the cost of labor, rents, materials, supplies and services."

Since Dec. 31, 1977, the company has invested nearly $2 million in major capital improvements and is committed to spend nearly $1.5 million for new non-revenue-producing facilities in 1979.

Greaves said that the company's request for a rate increase will be reviewed by the Illinois Commerce Commission, and all interested parties will have an opportunity to participate in the public hearings which will be held before the commission renders a decision.

Seeks veto on postal cutbacks

By ROBERT ESTILL
Press-Record
Washington Bureau
Rep. Tom Corcoran, R-Oklahoma, would like to get a congressional foot back in the door of management of the U.S. Postal Service.

When the Postal Reform Act of 1970, Congress gave up its power to set postal rates, approve postmasters and post office locations, and make other management decisions. Instead, it set up an autonomous government corporation, subsidized by the taxpayers but not under the direct control of elected representatives of those taxpayers.

The basic idea was to set up a more business-like system, free of political interference, that eventually would not be dependent on subsidies.

Corcoran's concern is that postal rates have increased — first class by 150 percent, from six cents in 1968 to 15 cents today — while service had declined.

As a member of the committee, he will offer two amendments aimed at giving Congress a limited management voice and an idea how the postal service spends its money.

He is not asking that Congress be given the power to set rates — a political hot potato now handled by the postal rate commission. He does want Congress to have the power to veto any service reduction with substantial nationwide impact, such as eliminating Saturday mail deliveries or closing small post offices. Under his amendment, any proposed service reduction could be blocked if a resolution opposing it was approved by either the House or Senate.

That amendment may have tough going in the committee, but Corcoran has introduced a separate bill to accomplish the same purpose.

Similar legislation was approved in the House but blocked in the Senate last year.

More likely to get a favorable nod from the committee in Corcoran's amendment requiring the postal service to report to Congress by Feb. 15 how it spent the money it received last year and how much it expects to spend the next year.

Congress now operates in the blind, without any itemized accounting of how taxpayers' funds are spent. And the amount is sizable.

The current basic public service subsidy is $920 million, which was supposed to be phased out over a five-year period beginning in fiscal 1980.

Instead, the bill before the committee would expand the subsidy to $1.1 billion in fiscal 1980, $1.2 billion in fiscal 1981 and $1.3 billion for subsequent years.

The bill also would extend indirect subsidies, about $150 million, used to hold down users' rates for newspapers, magazines and "junk mail."

About 5,000 persons are expected to be attracted to downtown Granite City on Saturday, Sept. 15, for the first annual Homestead Day to be sponsored by the Granite City Area Chamber of Commerce and its Women's Division.

The Granite City Council gave its permission Tuesday night to hold the event in the downtown area and to close some streets, as necessary, for the event.

David Fox, chairman of the Homestead Day Organizing Committee, told the council in a letter, "The purpose of Homestead Day is to attract as many visitors as possible to our community. Planning for the event is being handled jointly by the Downtown Granite City Retail Promotion Committee and the Women's Division, both of the Chamber of Commerce, and by the Granite City Jaycees.

"Homestead Day activities will center around an arts and crafts fair. In addition, we are planning a wide variety of foods and beverage booths, games of skill and a day-long program of free entertainment," Fox said in the letter.

Activities will utilize the downtown area along 19th Street and Niedringhaus Avenue and Civic Park, facing Niedringhaus Avenue, according to the chairman.

There will be no carnival rides or liquor at the fair, it was pledged. A fund-raising drive will be held and "tin

Lizzie' autos will be given to some participants, the letter explained.

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler asked the aldermen to support the fair, saying, "I think it is a tremendous program. Just super." The request was approved unanimously by the aldermen.

The book "Vivien Leigh" by Anne Edwards will be reviewed at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Venice Public Library auditorium.

The review will be given by Mrs. Jeanne Galanis. Mrs. Galanis has her bachelor degree from Webster College and studied speech at St. Louis University.

Admission to the review is free and the public is invited to attend according to a library spokesman.

Madison police answered a call to a tavern in the 1100 block of State Street where a woman, wearing a bikini, was allegedly dancing in front of the tavern. The owner was advised not to allow the dancing outside the tavern again.

Constitution: Citizen obligation to protect his rights—Kastelic

Text of the national award-winning original speech by Jon William Kastelic, 21, a senior at Washington University, St. Louis:

THE CONSTITUTION: A CITIZEN'S OBLIGATION TO PROTECT HIS RIGHTS

More than 2,000 years ago, in 400 B.C., a citizen of ancient Greece was put to death because of a dream. In that dream he had seen himself killing the emperor. The Senate in Greece ruled that no one, asleep or awake, was allowed to think such forbidden thoughts.

But today in the United States, under American law, there is no such thing as a "forbidden thought." No one can be punished merely for having mischief in his mind.

As one of our most esteemed Supreme Court Justices, Oliver Wendell Holmes, once affirmed, "There is no law against a man intending to commit murder the day after tomorrow."

Our country was born out of a struggle for personal freedoms. The men who founded our nation believed in a freedom that was cherished above all other values: personal liberties, freedom for their nation, and freedom for the individual.

The Declaration of Independence assures us, "... all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights ... that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men."

This proclamation justifies the existence of government which is given in the Preamble to the Constitution: "We, the people of the United States, in order to ... secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution."

The Constitution further stipulates specific rights in the first ten amendments. Collectively, these amendments are known as the Bill of Rights. Their provisions include the great constitutional guarantees of freedom of expression and of belief, of personal rights, and of fair treatment before the law.

These freedoms are generally considered the basic fundamental rights related to all men. Despite the Constitution's historical significance, this "written guarantee" in and of itself is worthless. These eloquent words on paper are meaningless unless we, the American people, are willing to obey, support, protect and defend them. Not only in times of peace and prosperity, but in times of depression and war.

We, the people, are the government! And that is our obligation to ourselves! From the Preamble, we learn that the Constitution demands obedience. Not simply because of its intrinsic excellence or the merit of its principles, but because it is ordained and established by the people as a whole. Through self-discipline and obeying the law, we can assure ourselves of our own constitutional rights.

Since we are the government, our main responsibility is to ourselves, to protect our civil rights as set forth in the Constitution. Ultimately, we will benefit individually, as much as our nation will prosper as a whole.

In the United States, the principal guardian for individual liberties is the judicial system, but most importantly the Supreme Court.

While other branches of the government retain some control over individual liberties, it is the courts which must interpret and apply the constitutional guarantees whenever someone claims that his liberties have been infringed upon.

Every citizen has the opportunity to use the courts to protect his rights. However, the fact that the courts do stand as guardians does not mean that the average citizen can sit back and rest assured of his "Constitutional rights."

Neither does the fact that these liberties are mentioned in the United States Constitution or various state constitutions mean that these rights have been bought and paid for by our founding fathers. They do exact a price. But even when we pay the price, these rights are not guaranteed to posterity forever.

For example, we never think of putting a price tag on the freedom of speech, at least not one that can be measured in dollars and cents. And it is a fact that civil rights are anything but free? They do have a price that we must pay, but it is paid for in different ways.

We pay for the right of habeas corpus by letting some criminals go free. We pay for the right of privacy by letting some mischief stay hidden.

We pay for the right of trial by jury and the right to appeal a verdict by slackening the pace of the court system, which results in increasing the cost of justice.

We pay for the protection against unreasonable search and seizure by making it harder to fight crime. And we pay for the protection against job discrimination by making it harder to do business.

In addition to preserving and protecting our liberties, each generation must also learn and understand them for itself. That means that each individual must be aware of his constitutional rights as a citizen of the United States.

It is only with this knowledge that we will be able to adequately defend, protect, and exercise them.

If we believe that our personal freedoms have been broken or infringed upon, we can attempt to right the wrong by making use of the judicial system. In the past, use of the courts has brought about many landmark decisions on the application and interpretation of the Constitution. Such action in the courts is largely responsible for bringing about major affirmative action legislation.

We can protect our freedom of choice and also assure our fair representation in government. One way to do this through exercising our right of suffrage.

In addition, when we have tolerance of others exercising their rights of freedom of speech and of press, we actively encourage these two freedoms. Then, when our own opinions form the minority, we can take the opportunity to be heard.

When we allow a score of religions to exist, but favor no single one in particular, we guarantee ourselves freedom of religion.

When we allow grievances to be brought out in the open and be discussed or protested, we are protecting our rights of petition and of assembly. Hopefully, in the final analysis, the disclosure of grievances will lead to the best policymaking decisions.

When we are quick to criticize others and limit the freedom of our fellowman, we only serve to limit our own.

In order to protect our fundamental civil rights, we must exercise those same rights. At the same time, we must also remember that liberty is relative to and dependent upon the liberties of all people.

In other words, your right to swing your fist ends where my nose begins. No one can be absolutely free to do as he or she pleases, for this ultimately would mean that no one would be free.

Each generation must also be willing to fight to defend its liberties.

Our country was founded on a fight for freedom. Throughout our past history, we have fought to protect and to defend not only our own civil rights but also the rights of peoples of other nations. America's fight for freedom gave inspiration to others to fight for their basic rights.

The determination of the existence of personal freedoms rests in the hands of the people.

One of our nation's great jurists, Learned Hand, stated his conclusions with these words: "I often wonder whether we do not rest our hopes too much upon a Constitution, upon laws and upon courts. These are false hopes; liberty lies in the hearts of men and women; when it dies there, no constitution, no law, no court can ever do much to help. While it lies there, it needs no constitution, no law, no court to save it."

Our rights are destined to be controlled by ourselves. Unfortunately, in the past, we have fallen prey to our emotions.

For example, after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor in World War II, fear swept throughout the country. All Americans on the Pacific coast were evacuated inland to "war relocation camps."

"The relocation programs often caused severe economic loss and personal hardship for many. Of these evacuated, at least 80,000 were native-born Americans. Even as the end of the war was in sight, the Supreme Court upheld the concentration camps as a necessary measure."

Although many Japanese-Americans fought heroically in World War II, and not a single instance of disloyalty to the United States has ever been found, these Americans were denied their "Constitutionally guaranteed rights."

This case serves to exemplify how fragile liberty really is, and that we are the masters of the Constitution ... not the reverse.

Nations around the world look to our country as the leader in human rights. The world follows our examples of freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of religion, freedom of thought, freedom of petition and freedom of assembly, but these freedoms are not absolute. They are relative to the people themselves.

These freedoms are not "guaranteed" to us. They are to be protected by us for the benefit of one and all.

It is an obligation of each citizen, to himself and his government, to defend, protect and support his constitutional rights. When it has been done this, we have guaranteed these rights to ourselves.

If any one nation is to guarantee these inalienable rights to all men regardless of race, creed, and color, let it be ours. The protection of our fundamental civil rights rests not on paper guarantees, but in the hearts and minds of the citizens of the United States of America.

Arms limit—doubt is voiced on verification

Reader's Digest comment: The proposed SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty) II with the Soviet Union has little to do with arms limitation and is rendered irrelevant because the U.S. cannot verify Soviet information on its arsenal.

The treaty places no real restraints on Soviet military power.

The thick smog of political rhetoric and mystifying mathematics which surrounds SALT II has hidden two grave facts from the public:

First, SALT II would not limit the number of missiles and nuclear warheads in the Soviet arsenal. It would only limit the number of "launchers"—the devices from which the missiles are fired.

Second, despite our satellites, radars and other electronic sensing devices, we have been unable to determine the true size of the Soviet strategic missile force.

Accurate, unimpeachable data, the very basis for a rational agreement of any kind, are missing from SALT II. For, while the United States has provided ample data on its forces, the Soviets have refused to reveal any pertinent and verifiable figures.

From months of investigation and interviews with scores of top officials, many of whom have been directly involved with the SALT talks, it has been shown how the United States buckled before these Soviet ruses and sought to pursue the treaty anyway.

Our common sense gave way to a curious kind of convenience. The U.S. intelligence community began counting launch silos (since they were relatively easy to spot by satellite) rather than the missiles that go into them, ignoring the fact that the Soviets have had both the means and the inclination to construct and hide great numbers of "strategic missiles."

In recent years, 1,200 Soviet ICBMs have been removed from the silos and replaced by more sophisticated models. Western intelligence sources puzzle over what happened to those 1,200 "old" missiles. Satellite photographs reveal no trace of where the ICBMs were taken.

The Soviets have a theory of "refire"—launching two, three or more missiles from the same silo. An American technique of launching missiles without damaging the silos has been adopted by the Soviets, but rejected by our own government.

While the United States stopped production of enriched uranium for nuclear weapons in 1964, the Soviets have increased production. We do not know how many thermonuclear warheads they are turning out, but the number could well be twice the figure generally accepted in the West.

Intelligence losses—like abandonment of vital electronic stations in Iran and the sale (by a CIA clerk) of the manual for one of our most sophisticated satellites—make it increasingly difficult for the United States to keep track of just what the Soviets are producing in the way of strategic weapons.

It was unwise at best to talk to continue without the most minimal assurances of meaningful information from the Soviets on the size of their arsenal.

As it is, limitations on "launchers" are meaningless, and neither an elaborate treaty nor the interest of Moscow in true "peaceful coexistence" can be counted upon.

Outside income issue — deferral by senators aided by 6-man vote

By ROBERT ESTILL
Press-Record
Washington Bureau

The Senate giveth, and the Senate taketh away. Reneging on a two-year-old agreement, the Senate has given itself a break to keep some members' outside income from being taken away.

Neither of Illinois' senators, Democrat Adlai Stevenson or Republican Charles Percy, tried to block or undo the breaking of the pact.

When Congress raised its salary from $44,600 to $57,000, it did so with the understanding that the $13,000-a-year pay boost would be coupled with a lid on outside earnings (largely speaking fees) by the members.

Each chamber adopted ethics rules setting an outside earnings ceiling of 15 percent of Congressional salary or $8,625-a-year effective Jan. 1, 1979.

Less than three months after the lid went on, poverty-pleading Senators said they could not live with it.

Without advance notice and with only six senators present, the Senate on March 8—on a voice vote—postponed the ceiling for four years.

That leaves the senators free—for at least four years—to earn up to $25,000 annually in honoraria (speaking or writing fees).

Neither Percy nor Stevenson were on the floor when the vote was taken, although Stevenson had been there earlier to point out there were other restrictions on earnings.

Both Stevenson and Percy had voted for the 15 percent lid when it was called for on a roll call (public record) vote in April 1977. Stevenson has had a change of heart.

Stevenson supported removing the 15 percent ceiling for four years because he now feels "they went too far" and it works a "financial hardship" on Hal Levy, Stevenson's press secretary.

Percy pleaded surprise, saying he would have been on the floor if he had known the issue was coming up. He said he would have voted against it because the ceiling was part of the pay hike agreement.

If a roll call ever is taken, Percy said he will vote against postponing the earnings barrier; but he said he would not call for a roll call vote.

"I think we should have a roll call, but I do not intend to ask for it," Percy said. "I do not think it would be required; the action was taken."

Common Cause, a citizens' lobby, is trying to reverse the Senate's action, but has not found anyone to call for a roll call vote.

Neither Percy nor Stevenson, both independently wealthy, need the honoraria; and both made little on the lecture circuit. Stevenson earned about $2,000 and Percy about $2,400.

But both senators say they are sympathetic to the complaints of their less prosperous colleagues.

The House, incidentally, does not plan to lift its outside income lid.

Funds are sought for more yule decorations

The Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce is asking the Granite City Council to appropriate another matching grant of up to $2,500 to aid in purchasing more Christmas decorations for the next yule holidays.

The Granite City Council Tuesday night referred the request to its finance committee to attempt to put the money in the 1979-80 fiscal year budget. During a drive last year, the council agreed to match any monies the chamber could obtain from donations, up to a line of $2,500. A letter from the Downtown Development Committee to Mayor Paul Schuler and the aldermen called the offer the start of what turned out to be a successful drive.

New decorative street lamp covers and other overhead decorations were purchased and used during the last Christmas season. It is hoped more decorations can be purchased this year.

Freedom under attack by top court — comment

Post-Dispatch—There is a cynical view being bandied about in newsrooms in the wake of last Wednesday's Supreme Court's decision opening reporters' and editors' minds to prying lawyers. That is that the lawyers are going to be surprised to find how little relevant information is there.

And there are complementary, and equally cynical, doubts about how much relevant information is in the minds of the nine judges, if they could only be opened to prying journalists. There is no doubt that the court is ripping apart the fabric put together two centuries ago to preserve the democracy which was being created.

The framers of the Constitution attempted to establish a system of shared authority under which the executive, legislative and judicial branches would keep one another in check.

When it was perceived that this was all very well but did not go far enough to protect the people's liberties, the Bill of Rights was added.

Expecting one branch of government to restrain another did nothing to prevent excesses by government as a whole — it was like setting the fox to guard the chicken coop.

The Bill of Rights, which includes the First Amendment's guarantees of the freedoms of speech and of the press, is a way of letting the people blow the whistle on the whole apparatus when it gets out of control.

One thing was left out. There is no way to blow the whistle on the Supreme Court justices.

They are appointed for life, apparently can be removed only because of exceptional rascality, and are alone in the serried ranks of this country's officialdom in being accountable to nobody.

These reflections stem from the court's 6-3 decision in the libel case of Herbert v. Lando, et al., in which only Thurgood Marshall and, to a limited degree, William J. Brennan, showed much understanding of the fundamental underpinnings of Americans' liberties.

It is another in a series of decisions handed down by the Burger court that are annulling the free speech and free press clauses of the First Amendment with reckless abandon.

In this nation's first 200 years, the judicial establishment often seems to have been regarding itself as engaged in a kind of competition to see who was going to be the top dog, to be in charge of redressing grievances and securing peace and domestic tranquility.

First it vanquished Congress, then the presidency and now it is turning its attention to the press, no matter how it is coupled it may be to deal with major social issues.

If it wins, there will be no one left to question its own actions except in the privacy of secluded bug-free rooms, if any can be found.

Defenders of freedom can argue with Byron R. White's majority opinion in the Herbert case because it continues the Burger court's practice of previous judicial decisions to pretend that the new law it is making is not new at all but merely a logical extension of whichever previous decision happen to be handy to hang this court's judicial robes on.

The method doubtless is a neat way of meeting the court's longing for judicial convenience, but it sacrifices the forest for the trees.

What suffers is freedom, lost in the process of selectively stringing together an almost unending chain of opinions known only to specialists in the arcane art of jurisprudence.

Now any public figure who feels aggrieved by an accurate (but allegedly false) printed or broadcast account of his misdeeds can seek revenge by taking over the editor's role, inquiring into the state of his and his reporter's minds, whatever that may mean. It does mean that some editors will be mightily constrained to publish fewer truths in the future.

Whom would the court appoint as the sole remaining tribunals of liberty? Lower-court judges, some of whom have yet to establish their credentials for intelligence, for understanding of the grave constitutional questions with which they will be wrestling and in a few cases, even for prudence?

It is not an editor but it is Warren Burger who has been complaining recently about the cranking machinery of the judicial apparatus and questioning the quality of the justice it is dispensing.

It is not an editor but it is Warren Burger who has been complaining recently about the cranking machinery of the judicial apparatus and questioning the quality of the justice it is dispensing.

Translation: If a particular judge finds the Bill of Rights inconvenient, ignore it.

He also said, "If inquiry into editorial conclusions threatens the suppression of truthful information, the issue would be quite different."

If he had asked any editors about it, he would have found out that such prying does indeed pose that threat.

Runways to alter Brown, Lindbergh

The East-West Gateway Coordinating Council board yesterday endorsed a draft Environmental Impact Assessment Report (EIR) for improvements at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport and the realignment of neighboring highways.

The report, submitted by the City of St. Louis for a $2,000,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The grant will enable the city to implement the relocation plan to assist low- and moderate-income persons displaced as a result of Community Development Block Grant activities.

Gateway also: Adopted a resolution presented by the Meramec River Recreation Area Coordinating Committee supporting a conceptual land and water use plan for the Lower Meramec River.

Adopted a resolution to support the continuation and expansion of the present functions of the St. Louis District Corps of Engineers at the District Office's continued location in St. Louis.

Endorsed an $8,500 contract with the Coalition for the Environment to conduct an automobile emissions inspection and maintenance public information program.

Council increases Portell's salary

Without comment or opposition, the Granite City Council voted Tuesday night to increase the salary of Granite City Superintendent of Streets Lionel Portell from $17,500 to $22,000 per year.

Due to political factions on the council which were evident during the city election April 3, when Portell was re-elected, some opposition to the salary increase was anticipated but none developed.

City Attorney Lance Callis said the council had passed a resolution in January that it intended to approve an annual salary increase for the superintendent of streets and setting the new salary at $22,000.

The aldermen asked at that time that an ordinance be prepared officially granting the increase.

Callis said Tuesday night's meeting was the last meeting of the council in preparation, since Portell is to be sworn-in for his new term of office at the next council meeting May 1, and increases must, by law, be approved prior to the start of a new term.

Portell will serve the next four years without another salary increase, it was noted. Aldermen absent Tuesday night's meeting were Clyde "Bus" Boyd, Lloyd Bailey and Gerald Parnley.

Housing problem is brewing in Madison

Mrs. Barbara Guest currently living in the Grenzer Homes in Madison is encountering problems moving into a house at 1655 Market St., Madison.

Mrs. Guest said she has tried to get Building Inspector Frank Dutko to inspect the house under the building and zoning laws but he has refused.

"When I asked Mr. Dutko why he would not inspect my house he told me I was I would have to talk to the Mayor (Sasyk)."

"When I asked why I had to talk to the mayor all Dutko would say was that was his orders," Mrs. Guest said.

Mrs. Guest has called for assistance from the Madison County Urban League and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) in taking legal action if necessary against the City of Madison and Madison city officials on discrimination charges.

"I called the mayor at this home last Friday (April 20) evening and he told me to call him at his office. This week I called him at his office on Monday and again Wednesday and he won't answer my calls. If I don't get moved in by Monday it will cost me double rent. I will have to make a house payment and pay again on my apartment. I have a job, but I don't make that kind of money," Mrs. Guest said.

Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk could not be reached for comment this morning as he is attending a Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Committee meeting.

Inspector Dutko also could not be reached this morning. Mrs. Guest said various factors are involved in the dispute.

Bob Cole sang a solo to the master councilor at the altar and to Mrs. Shirley Lane, his mother. Bob accompanied himself on the guitar.

Miss Beth Potillo, the master councilor's wife, played for the installation marching. Dennis Worthen escorted Brad Lane's mother to the altar. Brad presented her with an arm bouquet of roses and paid her a tribute. He then introduced other members of his family.

After receiving the gavel of authority from the installing officer, Lane thanked the DeMolays for electing him master councilor and thanked all who had a part in the installation.

Introduced were: Miss Tracy Dimock, honored queen of Bethel 43, International Order of Job's Daughters, who presented Brad with a scroll and introduced other Job's Daughters present; Mrs. Becky Slater, guardian of DeMolay; daughters; Marty Love, associate guardian.

Mrs. Martha Simpson, president of the Granite City Mother's Club, was introduced with her officers. The Mothers' Club was given a standing ovation by the DeMolays for their support and Brad Lane presented Mrs. Simpson with a corsage.

Paul Clineard was presented his past master councilor's jewel by Chapter Advisor Charles A. Meyer and Paul presented Brad with a master councilor pin. Paul Clineard awarded the DeMolay of the Term Trophy" to Geoff Wofford. Ellis N. Hackney Jr. presented, on behalf of the chapter, a "certificate of appreciation" plaque to chapter advisor Charles Meyer and his wife, Jo, for "outstanding and dedicated service to the James Stuart Chapter, Order of DeMolay."

The advisory council member were introduced by the chapter advisor, who noted that the newest advisor, William "Bill" Berger, would qualify as the "rookie advisor of the year" if Illinois DeMolay had such an award.

Grand Master Edward Lane spoke briefly, congratulating his son, Brad, master councilor, and the other officers who were installed.

The installation closed with the "forming of the cross" and singing of "Nearby My God to Thee" by members of Job's Daughters Bethel 43.

Following the installation, refreshments were served by the Mothers' Club and there was dancing to the Music of "The Fantasy."

Wooded clusters in home landscape

By WAYNE SIEFERT
Horticulture Adviser

Ground covers that grow in wooded hillsides are being adapted for wooded thickets or small clusters of ornamental trees in the home landscape.

Gems from the wild include Barren Strawberry (Waldsteinia Fragarioides) is a creeping ground cover that resembles a wild strawberry. It grows as expanding clumps 6 to 8 inches tall and produces small yellow flowers in late spring. It performs best in full shade and even moisture.

It performs well under low trees such as dogwoods, redbuds and magnolias. It should be planted on 12 inch spacing.

Wild Ginger (Asarum canadense) is a creeping ground cover that grows 7 to 10 inches tall and prefers even moisture and deep shade. It has glossy, deep green leaves that die down in the winter.

Wild Ginger is excellent for protected areas where you want to produce a deep-woods effect. It gradually spreads by short runners, and should be planted 10 to 15 inches apart.

Bunch Berry (Cornus Canadensis) is a relative of the dogwood that grows as a ground cover. It grows best in 50 percent shade or complete shade where it can have even moisture. In the eastern mountains, it thrives in soils rich in organic matter.

It produces beautiful white flowers identical to flowering dogwood. It should be planted among small trees where there is enough limb clearance to permit the wooded effect to be seen. Bunch Berry develops carpet effect with bright red berries in early fall. Plant 6 inches apart to create small patches.

Locating these plants will be complicated. Specialty nurseries that grow ground covers or offer wildflowers refer you to a nursery that does.

Start by calling, or visiting, local nurseries to refer you or to help you order plants.

DAYLIGHT TIME. As honorary mayor of the St. Flags Over Mid-America theme park, Dusty Hudson often finds himself performing unusual civic duties, including resetting the antique clock in front of the park's turn-of-the-century railroad station for the return to daylight saving time at 2 a.m. Sunday, April 29. Dusty says he remembers which way to turn the hands with the saying, "Spring forward, fall back."

NEW MEMBERS of the Venice Board of Education. James E. Turner Jr., center, and Raymond "Chuck" Mosby, right, both elected to three-year terms in April 14 balloting, look over the agenda at Monday night's board meeting with Larry Boyd, left, who was appointed to the board in November and was elected April 14 to complete a two-year term.

Tolliver, Glasper officers of Venice School Board

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

Jack R. Tolliver, a 12 year member of the Venice Board of Education, was re-elected board president at Monday night's board meeting with Larry Boyd, left, who was appointed to the board in November and was elected April 14 to complete a two-year term.

This is the fifth time Tolliver has been named to head the Venice School Board.

Re-elected board secretary was Wilbert Glasper, who won a three-year term to the board in April 1977 after initially being appointed in November 1976 to fill a vacancy due to a resignation.

A canvass of the April 14 election results was made and voting tallies remained unchanged from the unofficial figures published in the Press-Record's April 16 issue.

A resolution adopted by the board on Tuesday night, which showed James E. Turner Jr., 21, of Carver Street, Eagle Park, with 329 votes and Raymond "Chuck" Mosby, 24, of 2154 Terry St., Eagle Park, with 207 votes winning three-year terms to the board, and Larry D. Boyd, with 288 votes, named to a two-year unexpired term.

Boyd, a lifelong resident of Venice, was appointed to the Venice board in November 1978 to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of John C. Boushara.

Mosby, a write-in candidate, is head teacher in the Venice-Madison Head Start Program and was employed during the 1977-78 school year as Title VII parent coordinator in the Venice School District.

Turner is a student at Parks College, working toward a degree in transportation, tourism and travel. He will graduate with a bachelor's degree in 1980.

Boyd is employed as assistant to Venice Superintendent of Parks Dale Crawford and assistant to Venice Recreation Director Willie Teel.

He was captain of the Madison High School varsity basketball team in his senior year, 1970-71, attained an associate degree in recreation from Parkland College in Champaign and also attended George Williams College in Downers Grove, Ill., as a recreation major.

Boyd is married to the former Judith Lewis of Champaign and is the father of two children, a son, Kevin, 8, a third grade pupil at Venice Grand School, and a daughter, Tiana, 2 years.

Both Turner and Mosby are single.

The Rev. Richard H. Bailey, a former board president who did not seek re-election, was unable to attend Monday night's meeting because of illness.

George W. Wade, incumbent, who ran third in a field of five candidates seeking three-year terms, was present.

Tolliver commended those men, saying of Wade, "You did an excellent job while you were with us."

"Mr. Wade accepted all the challenges put to him and made his own decisions on the issues that faced the board. We all appreciate your efforts and I, personally, appreciate the job you did with us."

Of the Rev. Bailey, the board president said, "As you know, Rev. Bailey was the first black to serve on the Venice School Board and was with us for over 10 years. He is a fine man and did a fine job."

"Rev. Bailey was his own man. He accepted everything and voted according to the way he believed was right. We could always work together and his contributions will always be appreciated," Tolliver said.

The board voted to present inscribed plaques to both Rev. Bailey and Wade.

After the new members were seated and congratulated, unanimous votes were accorded Tolliver and Glasper to continue the respective offices of president and secretary.

In other action, the board rehired Lawrence Hartman as board attorney at a monthly salary of $350, the same as last year.

Donald Phillips was rehired as school district treasurer, also at the same salary, $175 per month.

The board secretary's monthly stipend remains at $188. The secretary's post usually is rotated annually by board members.

Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers was rehired, and other administrative personnel were retained.

Tolliver, a federal government employee, is a graduate of Venice High School. He is active as a coach with St. Mark's basketball teams and with Venice Boy Scout Troop One and Special Education Region One.

He and his wife, the former Evelyn Hartman, are the parents of five sons and one daughter. The family lives at 1250 Klein St.

Glasper, an electrician, resides at 519 Fillmore St. The First National Bank in Madison was named as the temporary depository for Venice School District funds, it was decided.

This decision was made on a temporary basis after Supt. Vickers explained that some or all of the school district's accounts may have to be moved to another institution that could provide additional funds to the district.

The administrator explained it was learned during the Easter holidays that the district would not be able to issue all of its $525,000 tax anticipation warrants for the education fund through the Madison bank.

A total of $450,000 in warrants has been issued so far.

Negotiations with bank officers are continuing this week to allow the remaining $75,000 in anticipation warrants, needed to meet this week's payroll commitments, Vickers said.

Although declining to make committee appointments until the next meeting, to allow himself time to talk with new board members and find their specific interests, Tolliver did appoint a Personnel Committee to permit negotiations to get under way with the American Federation of Teachers, Local 965.

Glasper was named chairman, with Gerald Cicio and Boyd as members.

Mayor Echols begins duties; delay tax vote

Acting Mayor Phillip Daniels called the Venice City Council meeting to order Tuesday evening and then announced the first item of business would be the administering of the oath of office to the newly elected officials.

Those taking the oath, administered by City Clerk Lloyd Patterson, were: Tyrone Echols as mayor and Aldermen Phillip Daniels of Ward One, George Mangiaracino of Ward Two, George Lewis of Ward Three and Victor A. Valentine Sr. of Ward Four.

Echols will serve a two year term. Former Mayor William Ebersold resigned Jan. 1.

With Echols now mayor, a vacancy exists in the Venice Fourth Ward. Echols indicated he would like to see the vacancy filled as soon as possible, but he wanted to consult with several persons in the ward before he would make any recommendation.

Upon taking his seat as mayor, Echols said, "I would like to thank everyone who worked and prayed so hard to make this election the way it did. I would like to ask for everyone's continued support. We have some problems and it will take all of us to solve them."

"I would like to announce that we will not be discussing or voting on a utility tax tonight. I am calling a special meeting at 8 p.m. Monday to discuss the tax."

We have one alderman out of town tonight (John Ervin) and I feel all the aldermen need to talk to the people in their wards and explain the tax," Echols said.

"This utility tax will not cover the needs of the city, but it is a step forward. I do not feel that it will be a hardship. The tax is three percent of your utility bill. If your bill is $60 a month, the tax would amount to $1.80."

In other action the council approved a building permit for Alex Williams to add two rooms to a home at 1213 Market St., at an approximate cost of $4,300.

A building permit was also issued to Mrs. R. L. Reed to add one room at 1229 Market St., costing $2,000.

The council approved payment of 60 meals for the annual Venice Senior Citizen dance on Tuesday, May 1, in the recreation center.

Beware on 'unpaid' tax

Taxpayers should ask to see the credentials of any individual claiming to be an Internal Revenue Service employee, the IRS has cautioned.

From time to time, individuals pose as employees of the IRS to collect money for what the imposters refer to as unpaid taxes, according to the IRS.

In almost every instance, taxpayers who owe money will receive written notification before being contacted in person by the IRS. In addition, every IRS employee who makes public contact carries distinctive identification, and is required to show it when conducting official business.

Taxpayers who are unsure of the identity of the person presenting IRS credentials—or who suspect the use of non-standard procedures—may call the IRS's Internal Security Division, Office of Regional Inspector, collect at 425-4236.

Burgess favors cooperation, vigorous enforcement of law

Alton Telegraph — The United States attorney for Southern Illinois talked to area police chiefs in Alton last week to get acquainted and stress cooperation among law enforcement agencies.

Recent changes in the U.S. court districts in Illinois place Madison County in the Southern Illinois office of U.S. Attorney James Burgess. Formerly, Madison County was under the Springfield office.

Territory across Central and Southern Illinois was realigned to make more sense. The area police chiefs probably didn't know exactly what to expect from the invitation to the meeting at the Federal Building. It isn't every day the U.S. attorney invites local law enforcement chiefs in to get acquainted.

In fact, Alton Chief Rudy Sowders said, it was the first time in many years for such a meeting in the area. "I think everybody got a good impression," Sowders said later.

It's difficult not to be impressed by Burgess. He's a former Champaign County state's attorney, assistant state's attorney in Champaign County, and before that Cook County, former special agent for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, with assignments in counterintelligence and military police.

Burgess came to Champaign-Urbana in 1969 as an assistant state's attorney to Larry Johnson. Before long, Burgess was the chief of criminal prosecutions.

He was elected to succeed Johnson in 1972, but was defeated for re-election in 1976. Burgess and Johnson were law school classmates at the University of Illinois where Burgess was mistakenly enrolled as a foreign student as a result of his last military assignment. He was overseas when accepted, and somebody made the wrong assumption.

In the Champaign County posts, he was known as a no-nonsense, hard-nosed prosecutor who ignored race and what-have-you. His philosophy was, and is, simple: Break the law, any law, and we'll do our best to nail you cold.

Perhaps he was too tough for elective political office.

He does not profess to be a politician.

In any event, he was not re-elected. He had entered private practice when newspaper reporters called him and asked about his name being mentioned for the U.S. attorney's post in East St. Louis.

Before the re-alignment, the office had branches in Danville and Benton.

At that point, he wrote U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson. He underwent an interview with the senator, and another with the Justice Department and was scheduled for a confirmation hearing before a Senate Committee, although that was cancelled.

In July 1977, he moved to O'Fallon and took over the office which now has a branch in Alton. Burgess may seek authorization to staff the Alton office with a full-time assistant.

As U.S. attorney, he oversees a variety of criminal and civil cases. The latter range from handling defense for a suit against the government from a civilian employee at Scott Air Force Base to plaintiff in oil spills in the Mississippi River.

If he anticipates any heat from actions of his office, Burgess likely will personally handle the prosecution. "I believe the buck stops on my desk," he said.

Basically, he was present to stress cooperation between all law enforcement agencies and to let the police chiefs know where to call him if needed.

With a smile, he also noted he reminded the chiefs: "If one of you forgets your oath of office, and it involves federal law, we'll give you the same benefit as any criminal."

Sowders saw it the way Burgess meant it: I'm all business; I'm a professional and I hope you're all professionals.

It sounded like vintage Burgess. And he came back to the vintage remark as he talked: "By vintage Burgess, I take it you mean hard-nosed prosecutor. To that, I plead guilty."

On July 21, 1977, he became U.S. attorney. Under the redistricting, he has become U.S. attorney for the U.S. District Court's new southern district.

Burgess stands on a philosophy that "there is no place for partisan politics in the prosecutor's office."

He's dedicated to the prosecution of political corruption, white collar crime, organized crime and narcotics.

"Weapons are high on my list of priorities," he said. "Where I come from, there is fear in the streets. That's because there are so many people with weapons in their hands, including saved-off shotguns."

"I also take a dim view of forgery."

With his staff of six lawyer assistants and nine support personnel, he plans a vigorous enforcement and prosecution of offenders.

"Crime is not exclusively a law enforcement problem — it is a people problem," he said. "Until people become committed to support law enforcement, there will be law enforcement problems."

Burgess has the big job of supervising federal investigation and prosecution of criminal offenders. He also becomes involved in civil cases, ranging from alleged injury from inhaling cigarette smoke to alleged malpractice in a veterans administration hospital.

"In a free society, laws should be obeyed, enforced or repealed," he said. "In a free society, there is a legitimate way to effect appeal. Until there is a repeal, law enforcement must be about the business of enforcing the law."

Burgess believes that the causes of crime should be attacked.

"Unless the vicious cycle is broken and the causes are dealt with, then we in law enforcement will be on a treadmill."

Burgess has some advice to youngsters: "Get an education. The world doesn't owe you a living — only an opportunity. There is no such thing as a free lunch."

"When you make a choice, be prepared to accept the consequences that flow from that choice."

Burgess' perseverance and courage are rooted in a foundation of faith.

"For me, I can go better by being a religious man," he said.

"Anything is possible, if someone wants to pay the price to sacrifice — blood, sweat and tears," Burgess said. "I wasn't given anything in this world — only an opportunity."

Bethel 43 initiates new members

Initiation and inspection was held at the Bethel 43 meeting. New members are Kristy and Sherri Clinard, Kathy Sandall, and Lisa Jones.

Queen Linda Mortland from Bethel 95 Alton and Past Queen Michelle Root from Bethel 43 were escorted and introduced.

Also escorted and introduced were Mrs. Anna Greene, grand deputy and Bethel guardian of Bethel 95; Russell Greene, associate Bethel guardian of Bethel 95; Mrs. Rebecca Slate, Bethel guardian of Bethel 43 and grand second messenger; and Mary Metcalf, treasurer of Bethel 43 and grand representative to Australia.

Gena Fox gave a report on Wood River's official visit. Rhonda Baker reported on the Edwardsville DeMolay Installation and Beth Knight reported on singing and the forming of the cross at the First Presbyterian Church of Madison.

Mrs. Doris Watts announced that Mrs. Martha Rogosh is the new president of the Mothers Club and Mrs. Delora Baker is the new secretary-treasurer. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Beth Calfrey, and Mrs. Watts.

Wayne Siefert speaks to AAUW

Wayne Siefert, Madison County horticulture adviser, was the speaker for the evening meeting of the American Association of University Women held at First Baptist Church last week.

He suggested that careful trimming of trees is important, being sure not to cut too close to the trunk, especially on trees that have suffered broken branches due to ice storms.

If replacement is necessary, one might consider planting oak or hickory trees which grow well in this area, he suggested.

He also discussed house plants. Questions concerning light, water, and fertilization were answered after his discussion.

At the business session, Mrs. June Barton, president-elect, was in charge as president Elizabeth Edwards is hospitalized. Mary Hiller read the secretary's report, and the state officers were elected unanimously by members.

In conjunction with the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Granite City branch of the AAUW, an installation dinner will be held May 17 at 6 p.m. in the colonial dining room of Bill Burns' Cafeteria. It was decided to serve punch during a get together of members, former members and guests preceding the dinner.

The June luncheon at Chard's has been scheduled for 1 p.m. Wednesday, June 13.

It was announced that reservations may be made for both events by calling the secretary at 876-7401.

Mrs. Konzen is hostess

The annual spring party of Chapter HT, P.E.O. Sisterhood, was held in the home of Mrs. Leo Konzen Monday afternoon.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Arthur Menendez and Mrs. Irvin Slate. They used arrangements of tulips and other spring flowers for table centerpieces and served luncheon to 19 members.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in playing charades. Mrs. Roy Baugh will entertain chapter members on May 14 in her home in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy (Karen) Miller of Edwardsville, formerly of Granite City, are announcing the birth of a daughter, Tiffany Lynn, who was born Monday at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis.

The infant weighed eight pounds, five ounces. She has a sister, Bobbi Gail, age 9. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rozum of Granite City.

Crisis—how to replace a half billion dollars?

SPRINGFIELD — Suddenly, the long dreaded Illinois financial crisis is here.

The surprising decision by the Illinois Supreme Court abolishing the corporate personal property tax has abruptly dumped a half billion dollars into the laps of Gov. James R. Thompson and the Legislature.

A legislative session already crowded with enough problems to make Ann Landers cry now finds itself confronted with a colossal one that will require the greatest of parliamentary skill and statesmanship to resolve.

It's sort of like the mountaineer who finally digs himself out of a snowdrift only to find himself threatened by a raging flood.

Big Jim and the lawmakers now have the unenviable task of replacing about half billion dollars in lost revenue at a time when just about everyone is crying for tax relief.

Nor can there be much delay in coping with the problem. Although the Supreme Court decision states that the tax can still be collected this year, only the most optimistic in government would expect that the corporate personal property tax will produce much revenue in its final year.

In the Chicago area many business firms have ignored the tax for years. Its main supplier has been Downstate corporations.

For the state Revenue Department to force any company to pay a tax formally declared unconstitutional will be the biggest law-enforcement district since prohibition.

Meanwhile those unfortunate souls charged with the responsibility of running the schools and cities of Illinois find themselves facing the worst financial crisis since the banks closed in the 30s.

Even before the Supreme Court issued its stunning decision school people throughout the state were mobilizing for a bitter struggle with the governor over budget allocations for elementary and secondary schools.

Thompson has proposed more than $2 billion for the two million students in Illinois public grade and high schools. But the schools people contend that is not enough.

The schools' allocation for fiscal year 1980, starting July 1, will under the Thompson budget be up $82 million from the current fiscal year. This is less than half of the $171 million increase asked by the State Board of Education.

Education groups already are in action on the legislative front to win legislative support for a higher budget. They include the Illinois Association of School Boards, the Illinois Federation of Teachers, Illinois Association of School Administrators and the Congress of Parents and Teachers (PTA).

The support can count on some substantial support from Democratic lawmakers, who hold majorities in both the House and Senate and whose leaders have also been sharply critical of Thompson's proposed education proposals.

Legislators are already skittish about public reaction to Thompson's gasoline tax increase proposal.

spending limits on both state and local governments including school districts.

A public relations campaign launched recently by the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB), ultimately asked, "Is it possible for Illinois to provide good schools and tax relief at the same time?"

The IASB had formed a task force to study the question, and it reached this conclusion: "It may not be possible to keep good schools and give tax-relief at the same time. At least none of the tax-relief proposals offered so far held out much hope of doing both."

The IASB is fearful that enactment of tax and spending limitations will threaten local control of the schools.

The report stated: "The Task Force believes that significant local citizen control of the schools must be retained. School boards must keep substantial authority over the use of both local and general state funds for education. Rigid limits on taxing or spending will deprive local boards and their communities of their control over personnel, curriculum and other policies."

Now the Supreme Court decision has greatly intensified the struggle between the schools, as well as many cities, are crowding close to the edge of financial disaster.

The weeks ahead will no doubt see the surfacing of a number of proposals. But getting enough people, businessmen as well as legislators, to agree on an acceptable compromise will take some doing.

Legislators are already skittish about public reaction to Thompson's gasoline tax increase proposal.

Computers, and people, weeding out state waste

SPRINGFIELD — In the ongoing war between man and automated machine, people with pencils recently scored a couple of points for man while saving the state of Illinois a modest bundle in the bargain.

Some time ago a task force on expenditure analysis and review was set up in the office of the state comptroller, to devise ways to find and eliminate fraud and waste in state spending, particularly in the Medicaid area.

By January 1978 the group, headed by Rick Cornell, was ready to roll in earnest as unit. Jim Kane and Nadine Schmidt began the painstaking job of wading, a page at a time, through thousands of pages of bills and vouchers submitted by medical professionals, pharmacies, hospitals, labs and others who participate in the roughly $888-million-a-year Medicaid program in Illinois.

Half that amount, or about $444 million, is reimbursed by the federal government after the Department of Public Aid pays the bills.

In today's world just about everything goes through somebody's computer. As a result, codes and numbers replace names and titles in most cases.

In the case of Medicaid payments, providers of goods and services send their bills to the Department of Public Aid which feeds them through its Medical Management Information System (MMIS) computers.

If that system finds nothing wrong, the vouchers go to the comptroller's office for final approval and issuance of state warrants to pay the bills.

As Kane and Schmidt continued thumbing through vouchers, each one independently began to notice that in some vouchers certain code numbers were recurring far more often than would be expected.

One such code was 90070, which the researchers meant a doctor had billed the state for a $15 "intermediate" office visit, as opposed to a "routine" visit which pays only $8.

Experience has shown that the majority of doctors in most cases have more "routine" visits during a normal day in the office than any other, Kane said. But what the researchers were finding were some doctors who apparently spent "intermediate" amounts of time with every patient they saw.

Checking further, Schmidt realized that a number of these doctors — eventually there would be 14 of them — had the same address. They were staff members at a Chicago clinic located near a low-income public housing project.

The comptroller's office returned the vouchers in question to Public Aid, unpaid, and correspondence began with the clinic staff, which maintained there was nothing wrong in the bills, the staff was "unusually dedicated and thorough" in treating patients.

Ultimately, public aid paid $8 on the claims, rejecting about $80,000 in claims for services rendered by this clinic in a period of months.

Since then the same kind of "one page at a time, seven hours a day," manual approach has shown that two other clinics in Chicago were diagnosing the same three complaints in nearly all patients — they either had lower back pain, anxiety or sinusitis.

Whichever complaint they had, they all got the same three drugs, prescribed at the clinic and dispensed by the clinics' pharmacies, usually at one-week intervals.

Investigation eventually indicated the three drugs, taken together, produced results much like heroin.

Further investigation eventually also closed down the two operations, with the participants apparently scattered outside the state. At least one is now dead.

Public Aid reportedly incorporated the 90070 code search into its computer program and has since saved a figure believed to be as high as $2 million in such overpayments to vendors, though Public Aid officials would not confirm the figure, or supply another.

Back at the comptroller's office, the researchers have improved their efficiency by incorporating their own computer's assistance.

"When we think we see a pattern starting to develop on vouchers from one certain individual, we add that name to the 'computer alert' program," Schmidt said.

"Every day the computer pulls any new vouchers from those people, so we know it the same day the bill first shows up here, and we can check to see if the trend we're watching is continuing."

The task force currently includes another team which is developing profiles against which to build similar search-and-verify techniques for all other state agencies.

Cornell says the groups are not looking for fraud only; they are checking for waste and over-expenditures, even in such areas as overbilling the state for mileage when an employee uses his own car on state business.

"What we find satisfying," Kane said, "is that in this case people found what the computer had missed. It took people to notice there were too many 90070s it took a person to notice those same diagnoses coming out of two different clinics, to notice the same drugs being prescribed, no matter which diagnosis was used."

"Computers can be programmed to do things like that, but in this case the computer didn't catch it. It all comes back, eventually, to the person behind the computer."

Fahner's embarrassment some feel he deserves it

SPRINGFIELD — The controversy surrounding Ty Fahner's travel expenses is the problem one of many politicians have with lodging in the capital city.

Fahner, the former director of the state Department of Law Enforcement, has been embarrassed by an article by the Associated Press that he claimed per diem lodging expenses even though he owned a house in Springfield.

Fahner was paid $15 a day for lodging and $15 a day for meals while living in his own Springfield home.

To some casual observers of government, this situation, another case of a politician ripping off the taxpayers.

However, even some seasoned political observers are aghast at Fahner's situation.

They're aware of directors in the past who attempted to nickel-and-dime government to death with travel expenses, but they've not known anyone who charged the state for living in his own house.

And to complicate matters, Fahner didn't seem like the type to do that sort of thing.

From Fahner's point of view, though, the situation is entirely different.

He was living in Evanston and doing quite well financially with a Chicago law practice when Gov. Jim Thompson asked him to join state government.

When he agreed to take the job, he knew considerable travel was involved, not only to Springfield but to other parts of the state as well.

For his first several months in government, he rented a room at a local hotel for the two or three nights per week he spent in Springfield. He received lodging and meal expenses as is customary for state employees who travel.

As he lived, though, does not offer much privacy. Legislators, for example, who often call late in the evening and ask him to come down to the lounge to discuss business. So he looked for other suitable housing.

Quite a number of legislators, faced with the same problems of hotel living, have likewise moved out to apartments or condominiums. They receive per diem ex-special treatment, and his requests were made in the open.

"There's little sympathy for Fahner, though."

For one thing, as the director of Law Enforcement he investigated irregularities on the part of others in government, so they don't mind that he's taking a little heat in return.

The general attitude is that he should have maintained the same standard that he held others to.

In addition, the feeling persists that on a state level applies to the rank-and-file while another set of rules applies to the top officials.

The Fahner case reinforces the belief that top politicians get preferential treatment.

Court remedy needed for Sanitary District impasse

Local mayors and supervisors are seeking court relief from an unacceptable situation — the Metro-East Sanitary District's continued ignoring of the rights and needs of the Quad-City area. A temporary injunction was issued yesterday halting the district's expenditures until the issue can be considered at a hearing May 4.

The district consists of this community, which is situated in the southwestern part of Madison County, and East St. Louis and other communities in northwestern St. Clair County.

The Madison County area long ago qualified through tax base size to provide three of the five Sanitary District board members. But a St. Clair County judge has also kept a third St. Clair County resident on the board, resulting in a six-member panel and a 3-3 representative standoff. The Illinois Supreme Court heard an appeal of that decision last November and, we hope, will announce its ruling soon.

In the meantime, waste is continuing, and services and hiring and spending are taking place mainly in St. Clair County.

The three local board members described the executive director as unresponsive to their wishes, and voted on Tuesday to discharge him. But the other three serving on the board disagreed and named one of their number to sign checks if a Quad-Cityan won't sign them.

With this history in mind, court remedies are imperative, locally and statewide.

Continued use of the already heavily burdened Quad-City area real estate property for a further tax subsidy to East St. Louis — in addition to the massive subsidies from Springfield and Washington — is intolerable.

Local county should be represented on SIU board

Because a newly-appointed Carbondale man has resigned from the Southern Illinois University board to avoid a conflict of interest, Governor James R. Thompson has an opportunity to appoint a Madison County resident to the board. Since there are many qualified individuals, we urge him to do so.

It will be recalled that the appointee who has resigned was named to replace Mrs. Margaret Blackshere of Madison, the only member of the seven-member Board of Trustees who resided in the home county of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

It is true that the local university serves a wide region and, in fact, the world. But it would seem reasonable and helpful to continue the long tradition of local representation on the SIU board.

Find new way to describe corporate profit trends

This week's news across the nation has included many quarterly reports, and there is still too much of a tendency to compare profits with the comparable quarter of the previous year, usually by a percentage.

We've resisted the temptation in our news coverage to do that with National Steel Corporation's earnings rise from $2,400,000 in January-February-March 1978 to $20,700,000 in 1979's first quarter, a 760 percent increase might sound like a lot until two pertinent facts are considered.

First, the year-ago earnings were depressed by a coal strike, bad weather and energy shortages.

Second, the latest profit total is considered unsatisfactorily low and represents a return on equity of only 6.1 percent, less than half the average return for all manufacturers.

A theoretical firm that normally earns $1 million a quarter might have netted only $1 — or experienced a loss — a year ago. Its million percent increase wouldn't be outrageous, even though it would sound like it.

Wire services and others reporting on businesses ought to expand or improve their methods of describing corporate profits to put them in better perspective.

Historic occurrence for county

To the Editor:

I have been involved in many elections, but the mayoral election in Venice last Tuesday is one I will never forget.

Two main and good reasons include that history has taken place. It is the first time in the history of Venice that a black man has ever been elected mayor.

Second, it is the first time in Madison County a black man has been elected in the county as the chief executive of a city.

It has been a long, hard, tiresome, ups-and-downs struggle. I am glad the elections are over with.

But there is still hard work, and long hours ahead for the betterment of our city of Venice.

In order for our mayor to make it, we as citizens should get with him and support him 100 percent.

It is time for us to put away our little jealous dislikes, malice and hate toward each other. Let us not ask what Mayor Echols is going to do for us. With a willing and open heart, we should say, "How can I, as a citizen of Venice, help Mayor Echols and the board of aldermen to better our city."

I believe the mayor can be and will be one of the best and fairest mayors of Venice and also in the state of Illinois.

Our city of Venice has been through many trials and tribulations in the last five months. Sizes youth before there is a ray of sunshine.

Let's give our mayor a chance before we judge. He can't do things overnight. Let's pray and put our arms around him and support him. Please don't forget our aldermen. They are the ones that represent the people, also.

On any problems within the city, check with your aldermen in your ward, because if the alderman stays on his job, the mayor's job will be much easier.

Let us not worry the mayor on paltry things.

With the citizens working together with the mayor and aldermen, Venice will be one of the best cities in the state.

May God bless our mayor and aldermen.

No sewer tap-owns till June 1980; advice on inspections, pipe and firm

Special Service Area One's Sanitary Sewer Committee — Chairman Louis Whittell and Rod Bauder, Morris Miles, Arthur "Cooper" Moore and Homer Boothman — today provided information for residents of Madison County who will be served by the sanitary sewers being constructed in Area One. The committee said:

(1) "Residents should be advised that the sanitary sewer project is not expected to be complete until June 1980. Until such time as the project is completed and accepted by the County of Madison, no resident will be allowed to connect (tap-on) to the sanitary sewer system.

(2) "Any resident making a connection without county permits and inspection will be subject to county fines up to $500.

(3) "Any sewer service line from a dwelling to the main sanitary sewer must be inspected by a representative of the County of Madison before such line will be permitted to connect to the main sanitary sewer.

(4) "Pipe used for any sewer service line from a dwelling must meet or exceed the following specifications: 'Service lines shall be of pipe with minimum of 18 inches in diameter, of PVC (polyvinyl chloride) (plastic) material, with pressure rubber gasket joints, and shall conform to ASTM-3034 (latest revision) with a minimum dimension ratio (SDR) of 35.'

(5) "It is possible that material suppliers have materials for sale which do not conform to the requirements of the County. Residents may be purchasing deficient materials by buying four-inch diameter pipe.

(6) "Care must be taken in purchasing pipe material, since improper size and materials will not be allowed to connect to the sanitary sewer system.

2 power outages in GC yesterday

Two power outages yesterday afternoon in Granite City affected, as many as 3,000 customers, a spokesman for Illinois Power Co. explained today.

The first outage occurred at 1:09 p.m. when a piece of equipment ran into a 34,000 volt line at N.L. Industries (National Lead), affecting everything served by that transmission line throughout Granite City.

The second outage occurred at 3:45 p.m. when a piece of equipment ran into a 34,000 volt line at N.L. Industries (National Lead), affecting everything served by that transmission line throughout Granite City.

The Wabash substation, serving the east central area of Granite City, south of Johnson Road and east of Nameoki Road, also was affected. About 2,000 customers were without service, but all had power back by 1:34 p.m. yesterday.

At 3:45 p.m. yesterday, in the 2900 block of Enzess St., an independent tree trimmer dropped a large tree through major three-phase circuit lines, leaving much of West Granite City without power.

Within 30 minutes, most were back in service, except those on a lateral line to about 200 customers, who were out until about 10:30 p.m. A few near the break were without power until 2:30 a.m. today, the power company spokesman said.

Overpass schedule unchanged—Schuler

Despite a delay in processing Granite City's application for a $1.3 million federal grant for an overpass between West Granite City and the downtown area, construction on the estimated $5.25 million it will take to build the overpass and should be able to get completed by other sources.

Schuler said today that he believes sufficient evidence can be given to the Illinois Department of Transportation that the city has the financial resources to complete the project to get a "green light" to begin the work.

A target date of June 28 to let the bids be worked for and Schuler said, "I plan to do everything in my power to meet that date."

The mayor said the city has secured more than $4 million of the estimated $5.25 million it will take to build the overpass and should be able to get completed by other sources.

Schuler said that the money will be available, even if the $1.3 million Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) is turned down.

The city withdrew its application for the UDAG grant until July after receiving a preliminary indication from the Chicago

HUD office that it would be disappointed for equal opportunity guidelines.

"They are playing games with us, just like they did with the housing authority. We have more than 500 minority group residents in Granite City and we do meet the HUD guidelines," Schuler said.

Schuler said to resolve the differences with Chicago will begin as soon as written notification of the non-compliance are received from the Chicago HUD office. Schuler said, adding the application will be resubmitted and should be ready for approval by July.

GC Steel steam line

The Granite City Council has given permission to Granite City Steel to install an overhead steam pipe line over 20th and 21st streets as part of a plant expansion announced last month.

Attorney Leo Konzen told the council the pipe will go over Route 182 and the two streets from the steel company's blast furnaces to the main plant on 20th Street.

A right-of-way agreement giving the company the overhead rights for a minimum of 50 years was approved unanimously by the councilmen.

The pipe is to be 20 inches in diameter and will be installed 21 feet over the pavement, according to the agreement. The company will have to relocate or remove any trees or structures which interfere with the improvements to either 20th or 21st streets, it also is noted.

Alderman Charles Douglas of the First Ward said that occasionally he has difficulty in getting the city to have more than 500 residents and he is attempting to resolve complaints from his ward's residents about noise or other problems.

Jury finds Rapoff guilty

After about five hours of deliberations, only in Madison County Circuit Court yesterday found Andrew T. Rapoff, 54, Osage Beach, Mo., guilty of battery.

Rapoff was charged in connection with the Aug. 16, 1978, beating of Granite City Seventh Ward Alderman Robert R. Rice in the parking lot of Charlie's Restaurant.

The jury also found real estate broker Walter J. Rozycki, 52, of 2216 Madison Ave., innocent of both charges.

He said he hoped the steel company would take notice of the "free" favor being done by the city and added, "I hope Granite City Steel will give us reciprocal favors when we have problems."

The jury trial began Monday in Edwardsville and concluded at 2:30 p.m. yesterday, when the case was given to the jury.

The verdict was delivered at 9:45 last night. Assistant Madison County State's Attorney Casper Nighobossian was prosecutor and Robert Rice, an attorney from St. Clair County, served as the defense counsel.

A date for sentencing is to be set by Associate Judge P.J. O'Neill, who presided over the trial.

Oppose live animal experiments

To the Editor:

State Rep. Glenn Schneider has introduced House Bill 1362 in the Illinois legislature. It would permit experimentation on live animals in public schools. The present Illinois School Code prohibits live experiments.

Psychiatrists have proved that live experimentation dehumanizes young people. In their publicized study (Wall Street Journal 2-3-75) Drs. Nathan Blackman and Daniel Hellman reported that adults failed for violent crimes such as murder had been cruel to animals is terribly important."

We live in a world which dehumanizes youth at every turn, where a contract can be entered into to have a parent murdered for as little as $600. Young people today are desperately seeking assurance from adults that life has meaning, for them and every living thing around them.

They want to be caring and kind. Yet some adults, state representative among them, are telling them that they are foolish, that this is a dehumanizing world, and they must do it to the other guy before he does it to them.

Line yourself on the side of youth by letting your representatives in Springfield know you want HB 1362 defeated.

Madison relays win Madco small school meet

WOOD RIVER - Using an old ally - the relays - the Madison High School boys' track team won the Green (small school) Division Madison County meet here Tuesday. The Madison girls track team finished second.

For the boys, the final standings were: Madison 75 points, Civic Memorial of Bethalto 63, Wood River 52½, Triad 46, Highland 25, Roxana 21, St. Paul-Highland 2.

But Madison had some other athletes in the meet besides Davenport. Carlyn Jackson finished third behind Davenport and Triad's Greg Pittman in the 440.

Tony Mayes placed second in the 880 yard run. It was won by Mark Laymar of Civic Memorial in a time of 2:05.4.

The Madison school record for the mile run is 4:49.5, set by Quillian Bravel in 1938. "It's probably the oldest record still in the books," said Steptoe. "We've broken all of the others."

Sylvester Collins of Madison won the 330 yard low hurdles in a time of :42.1.

The Trojan 440 yard relay team of James Heard, Collins, Marcus White and Davenport won that event in a time of :45.3. Wood River finished second well off the pace.

In the 880 relay, the Madison team of Troy Butler, Collins, Heard and White won it in a time of 1:36.0. The mile relay was won by Heard, Jackson, White and Davenport of Madison in 3:41.6.

Evans does it again

CARBONDALE - Granite Cityan Paul Evans, a 1977 graduate of South High School, improved his record to 4-0 here Saturday when he pitched Southern Illinois University-Carbondale to a 3-0 victory over Bradley University.

The 6-2 sophomore right-hander said he didn't have his best pitch, but that he made the best of what he had. "I knew I didn't have my best stuff today," he said. "So I was just throwing a lot of sliders."

The victory was Evans' third straight shutout. He was tagged for seven hits by Bradley, after throwing a no-hitter (against SIU-Edwardsville) and a one-hitter his last two outings.

In the fourth inning, Bradley had a chance to break Evans' string of scoreless innings when it loaded the bases with nobody out. But Evans helped get himself out of the jam when he caught a line drive off the bat of Bradley shortstop Steve McAllister and fired the ball to first base for a double play.

The next batter popped out to second, ending the threat. SIU-Carbondale went on to sweep the doubleheader, winning the second game 3-2.

ALTON - Granite City South finished a distant second here Tuesday to powerful Alton in the running of the annual Madison County "Green" (large school) track meet at Public School Stadium.

Alton's Redbirds finished the meet with 44 points, followed by South with 57, Edwardsville 48½, Collinsville 40½ and Granite City North 38.

The weather was damp and the track was slow because of a steady rain which pelted the area the morning of the meet. But that didn't hamper South's Dave Houston.

Houston was one of three double-winners in the meet, taking both the mile and two-mile runs.

Houston's stiffest competition in both races came from teammate Dave Taylor, who finished second in both events. In the mile, he fought Taylor off long enough to run it in 4:37. Taylor ran it in 4:39.

In the two-mile run, Houston and Taylor ran neck-and-neck most of the race, along with Alton's Burr.

Burr actually took the lead on the next-to-last lap, but the two Granite Cityans kept a steady pace and finished one-two again... well ahead of Burr.

"South has had a lot of good distance runners," said South Head Coach Donnie Miller. "But this is the first time we've been blessed with two at the same time."

"I've never seen two runners who are as equal in their abilities. Houston wouldn't let Taylor slip by him, but I thought he (Taylor) would get him in the mile."

Despite the wet track conditions, Houston's time in the mile run was his best ever. "I thought the times were especially good, considering the weather," said Miller.

Besides Houston, there were two other double winners at the meet. Ted Siles of Collinsville proved to be too much for the long and triple jumpers, winning both events. He took the long jump easily, but won the triple jump by only one inch.

Alton's Ed Anderson was the other double winner. He won both the 120 high hurdles and the 330 low hurdles. His time in the 120s was 15 seconds flat, while he ran the 330 lows in :40.8.

Houston wasn't the only Granite Cityan to gain first-place honors. In all, the two teams from here gathered in four firsts.

North's John Kefalas won the pole vault with a height of 12 feet, six inches. Janice of Alton also vaulted 12-6, but he required more attempts.

"It wasn't the best I could do," said Kefalas. "But with the wind the way it was, it wasn't too bad a height. I hope to do better Friday (at the GC South Invitational)."

South's Kramer and Adams tied for third place in the pole vault with jumps of 11 feet, six inches.

South's Konzen was the winner of the shot put with a toss of 48 feet, 4½ inches, enough to edge out teammate Seibert who had a distance of 45-10 and second place.

Other place-getters for South were: Keeling second in the 220 yard dash (:23.9), the 440 yard relay team fourth (:46), the 880 relay team fourth (1:37.2), the two-mile relay team fourth (9:10), Fuller second in the 330 low hurdles (:41.4), Adams fourth in the 330s (:42.1), Grove third (1:38-1½) and Konzen fourth (1:37-9) in the discus.

For Granite City North, other place-getters were: Portell second (53.4) and Cuevas third (:53.5) in

To change or not to change Illinois preps go metric

By PETE HAYES
Press-Record Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY - Illinois high schools are about to lose a few feet... of their tracks, that is.

With the high cost of running a school system staring them in the face, Illinois high schools must now encounter yet another expense... but it's one they've known about for some five years.

The National Federation of State High School Associations is encouraging state associations to convert their traditional 440-yard tracks to 400-meter ovals, which are slightly shorter.

An official of the national organization, Tom on Frederick, explained it this way: "We don't want to be an island, and be the only amateur track organization in the world to continue to run in feet and yards."

Illinois has fallen in line with the NFSA request. The Illinois High School Association (IHSA) is requiring local high schools to convert to metric-distance tracks by next year if they want to host state-related (districts, etc.) tournaments.

"We were notified about five years ago that we'd have to change," said Bryan Wilkinson, athletic director at Granite City North High.

"We've never hosted a post-season meet and probably won't since we don't have an all-weather track, but we still are under the impression that we'll eventually have to switch to metric."

"The plans have been made for quite some time now," said Wilkinson. "All it'll involve for us will be adding to one of the curves at the end of the track. We probably will have it done in time for next season."

Tracks can be shortened to 400 meters by adding to the inside curve the equivalent of one lane of 100 yards. But that could be expensive, especially to schools that have all-weather tracks.

All-weather tracks are made of a rubberized asphalt-type material and are poured into place. The results are faster times and the ability to have track meets on rainy days that would otherwise force cancellation on a traditional cinder track.

Neither Granite City high school has an all-weather track, nor does Madison. But area schools with them are Belleville East, Highland, Red Bud, Bethalto and O'Fallon. Wood River will have one ready for the 1980-81 school year. How will the change effect schools with these types of tracks?

O'Fallon Athletic Director Don Holmes said his school is in the process of taking bids on the proposed change in its track. He said the alterations will take place this summer.

"We'll probably add about 14 inches to one-half of the arc at one end," he said. "It doesn't sound like much, but it'll cost anywhere from $4,500 to $10,000."

"We've heard estimates from one figure to another. We'll probably settle on a price somewhere in between. We don't want to cut corners to save a few dollars and then end up with a poor track. But I can tell you right now we're not going to spend any $1,000."

South Athletic Director Roger Smith voiced an opinion similar to that of most area AD's. He's in favor of the conversion to metrics. "I like it," he said. "But the conversion prices aren't going to be cheap."

"This thing's like any other rule that's handed down. We're just going to have to make the best of it."

An athletic director who said he's going to change only because the IHSA says he has to is Red Bud's Rich Griffin.

Red Bud's all-weather track was installed eight years ago at a cost of approximately $100,000. It's one of the finest in the area. But the cost of altering it for the metric system is a little higher than the one O'Fallon's Holmes used.

"We figure it'll cost us around $12,000 to $14,000 to alter it," said Griffin. "But what can we do?"

One alternative would be to simply re-mark the track for metrics. But Griffin said he wouldn't favor that. "There would be so many lines on the thing, a guy would need a road map to find out where to go."

Neither Wilkinson or Smith could quote any estimates on the proposed alterations to the two Granite City tracks. But according to Smith, neither would be under consideration for a post-season IHSA meet anyway.

Coach not pleased; still a 10-6 winner

By DOUG IRVIN
For the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Coach Bob Stegemeier of the Granite City North baseball team was not too happy with the amount of intensity that his team displayed in yesterday's game with East St. Louis Assumption, but how upset can a coach get if his team won 10-6, and he got to see 15 different batters and two pitchers in a single game?

"Assumptions' Pioneers were a little late in getting started as its bus did not arrive in North's parking lot until five minutes after the game was to have started. They also got a late start in the point scoring aspect of the game. Their first run came in the fourth and their big inning was the seventh, where they tallied five off of three hits — two of them homers — at least the umpires say.

Starting senior pitcher for the Steelers, Mike Hubbard, sent the first two batters back to their coach with a "K" next to their names. Hubbard struck out three more, totalling five. North scored in their half of the first inning when Tom Greco singled up the middle, stole second, and scurried across the off-white plate on a RBI single by Bob Ford.

North scored again in its 11-batter-third inning. Bob "Moose" Batey walked and Jeff Stamper went to first on an error. Ford hit a two RBI single to left. Ford scored when Dick Awalt was hit by a pitch and Larry Burns reached on an error. Dennis Page walked in a run as did Tony Pierce, 6-0.

Darin Ditts of Assumption tripled and then scored on a hit by Eric Rives in the top of the fourth. North tallied three more in that inning, 9-1.

Coach Stegemeier retired six members of his starting crew to look at some of the benchers. In the sixth, his replacements tallied one.

Jim Robinson was hit by a pitch and stole second. Brian Patterson got the RBI as he hit a single, 10-1.

Then it happened. The top of the last 10-6 game. The Pioneers were nine behind with only three outs to play catch-up ball.

Most of North's defensive team was comprised of replacements. Kevin Jones batted first in that inning and he drilled the ball some 370 feet over the center field fence. Bobby Johnson reached on an error and then Tony White hit a controversial home run. The fans saw what appeared to be the ball hit the ground and then bounce over the fence, but the umpires called it a two-run homer and Coach Stegemeier did not complain.

Ted Fields then reached on an error, stole second, and scored on yet another error. Kevin Cripps of North then came into the contest as the Steelers' second pitcher.

Charles Williams was walked and Rives singled. On a passed ball, Williams scored. The next batter struck out and the game ended, 10-6.

"Hubbard got tired — it was his first long outing," said Stegemeier. "We had a 10-1 lead and wanted to take a look at some of the kids. They all got to bat and we learned some things."

Tonight, the 9-1 Steeler club hosts the Trojans of Madison at 4 o'clock. Highland-St. Paul on Friday night and Edwardsville on Saturday afternoon are North's four weekend games; both doubleheaders and both away.

Step toe new coach

MADISON — At its last regular meeting, the Madison Board of Education named former assistant Charles Steptoe and the new head football coach at Madison High School.

Step toe, 41, replaces Nick Jakich who resigned the position after the end of last season.

Step toe graduated from Southern Illinois University in 1961 after playing football there for four years (lettering all four).

Before attending SIU-Carbondale, Steptoe played four years of football at Centralia High School. There, he earned all-South Seven Conference honors, all-Southern Illinois and Honorable Mention all-state. Steptoe was an assistant coach at Cairo Senior High from 1961 until 1964, when he came to Madison. He served as an assistant there until 1973, when he "retired" to devote all his time to the track team, of which is the head coach.

Step toe said he is excited about the appointment. "I'm thrilled to death," he said. "I'm really looking forward to next season and being able to work with the kids. I have a good nucleus back from last season and I think we'll be able to do well, provided we can fill some gaps."

Those "gaps" mentioned by Steptoe are the quarterback and fullback positions. "We'll have to find a quarterback to replace Jackson (Carlyn, who graduates this year) and a strong fullback to take the place of Heard (all-area strongman James, who also graduates)."

Step toe is a guidance counselor at Madison High School. He and his wife Gladys live in East St. Louis with their 12-year old son Robert.

Pitch, Hit and Run scheduled here

GRANITE CITY — Three of the game's outstanding ballplayers — Ron Guidry of the New York Yankees, Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox and Davey Lopes of the Los Angeles Dodgers — give youngsters expert baseball advice in this year's Pitch, Hit & Run Tips Booklets.

Each discusses his specialty: Guidry, pitching; Rice, hitting; and Lopes, running. The booklet is available free during April at any Burger King restaurant.

Pitch, Hit & Run is co-sponsored by the National Recreation and Park Association and developed in cooperation with the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports. Cy Young Award Winner In the Pitch, Hit & Run booklet, Guidry cautions young pitchers to throw only fast balls. The curvball motion, he says, might damage the young arm which is still growing.

His advice to young ball players: "Take your time and work carefully. But above all, have fun."

In Winning the 1978 American League Cy Young Award, Guidry became only the fourth unanimous selection for the honor since the award was initiated in 1956. The 26-year-old left-hander's 25-3 record and 1.74 ERA were the best in the majors last season.

American League MVP Rice, the 1978 American League Most Valuable Player, is recognized as one of the most productive hitters in baseball. The 25-year-old slugger hit .315 last year and led the majors in homers (46) and RBI (139).

The South Carolina native tells youngsters there are five basic parts to becoming a good hitter: confidence, concentration, stance, swing and discipline. He emphasizes the first two as the most important.

"Great Base Stealer" Lopes, the Los Angeles Dodger second baseman, has been called the "greatest base stealer in the game today," by another great Dodger base stealer, Maury Wills.

Lopes broke a 53-year-old record in 1975 by stealing 38 consecutive bases. The previous year, he tied a 70-year-old National League mark by stealing five bases in a game. He also owns the career Major League stolen base percentage record, making good 599 times in 734 attempts for a .814 percentage.

Part of All-Star Program

Approximately 2.4 million youngsters, or 16.6 percent of the national total in the 9-12 age group, are expected to compete this year in the program's three categories: pitching at a target, hitting for distance and running the base path for speed.

The local competition will be May 19 at Wilson Park. The program continues through four levels of elimination until two contestants remain in each of the four age brackets (9,10,11,12). The finals will be held as part of the All-Star game festivities in Seattle July 17.

'New' lineup helps South to victory, 4-2

ALTON — The Granite City South baseball team rebounded from its loss Saturday to GC North with a convincing 4-2 victory over Alton yesterday.

South Coach Babe Champion shook up his defensive alignment somewhat and it paid off - his club committed no errors. Moving to third base from shortstop was Jeff Parker. Third baseman Kevin Sykes went from third to second base and junior Rich Cope saw his first action of the season as the starting shortstop.

Jim Vrenick pitched a four-hitter for South, faltering in only one inning. He gave up two runs in the third inning, but kept Alton's Redbirds at bay the rest of the game.

This was a very important win for us," said Champion. "We'll be getting together next Tuesday to seed teams for the Regional Tournament. This gives us two wins over Edwardsville and one over Alton."

Teams involved the the Alton Regional will be South, Granite City North, Edwardsville, Alton, Wood River, Roxana, Bethalto and Jerseyville.

South opened the scoring in the first inning. Sykes led off with a walk, went to second on a hit-and-run fielder's choice off the bat of first baseman Jim Thurmon and scored when Parker doubled into right centerfield.

In the third inning, Sykes again led off with a walk, but was forced out at second when Thurmon hit into another fielder's choice.

But Thurmon stole second and came in to score when Pat Hogan singled to leftfield off the shortstop's glove.

After Alton came back to tie the score in the third inning, South went back ahead in the sixth. Hogan walked and stole second. Then Todd McFarland doubled down the base line, scoring Hogan.

South designated hitter Jeff Treter then doubled over the centerfielder's head, scoring McFarland. "This could be one of our best outings of the season," said Champion. "To play errorless baseball with a new infield is tough."

Champion said he was pleased with the pitching performance of Vrenick. "He gave us six strong innings," said Champion. "He struggled a little in the third, but got out of it."

South's record stands at 12-5 going into today's scheduled home game with Belleville East. However, according to Champion, it appears doubtful that the game will be played because of the wet grounds.

two-mile relay. Their time of 8:43.5 bettered the old mark set last year by Madison of 8:48.6.

In the field events, Madison claimed first places in two events.

Troy Butler won the triple jump with a distance of 42 feet, 11 inches.

Civie Memorial was second. Collins of Madison won the long jump with a distance of 20-11 1/2. Teammate Dixon was third.

Girls Meet

Highland's depth proved to be too much for the other teams in the girls Green Division meet. But Madison's Lady Trojans managed to stay ahead of Wood River most of the meet to edge away with second place.

The way Madison's girls managed to gain second place was a page out of their male teammate's book...the relays.

Madison's girls won all four relay events - just like the boys.

The 440 relay was won by Terry Smith, Veronica Barney, Annette Walker and Jacqueline Ware in a time of 54.9.

Madison's Smith, Walker, Ware and Gloria McNeil won the 880 yard medley in 2:14.4.

The 880 relay was won by Madison's Smith, McNeil, Patricia Allen and Barney in a time of 1:57.4.

Veronica Williams, Traci Parker, Bernadette Williams and Veronica Davenport won the mile relay for Madison in a time of 4:36.9.

Smith finished second in the 220 yard run to Highland's Kim Tuffli. Ware was third in the 100 yard dash.

In the 440 yard run, Parker and Veronica Williams finished third and fourth for Madison.

Williams was the winner of the 880 yard run for Madison with her time of 2:38.1.

Linnda Aponey of Madison finished in a tie for third with Rozum of Highland in the 110 yard low hurdles.

In the field events, Darlene Reed of Madison won the shot put with her distance of 35-7 1/2. Bernadette Williams was second.

Darlene Bennett of Madison was third in the discus, while teammate Bernadette Williams was fifth. Williams also finished fourth in the long jump.

SIUE wins close one

EDWARDSVILLE — It was a cliff-hanger, but Coach Kent DeMars' Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville tennis team hung on to beat Memphis State U., 5-4 in a collegiate match Sunday afternoon on the SIUE courts.

The match was decided on the outcome of the final doubles match as the Cougars' tandem of Scott Whaley and Farrukh Siddiqi split a bitterly-fought encounter with the visitors' Cliff Jones and Keith Begley, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

Sunday, it appeared that the Cougars were going to have a breeze as Juan Farrow defeated Memphis State's No. 1 singles ace, Peter Simpson, kept up the pressure on the Cougars by beating Scott Whaley, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

Alton

the 440, Glenn Edwards second (2:02.9) and Kessman fourth (2:09.2) in the 880, the 440 relay team fifth (48.2), the 880 relay team third (1:36.7), the mile relay team second (3:37.7), Tim Dudley fifth in the 330 low hurdles (42.46).

York fifth in the high jump (5-10), long jump (19-7 1/2) and triple jump (37-10 1/2).

Girls Meet

Collinsville, like its Alton male counterparts, scored a repeat team victory in the girls competition, held at the same time.

The Lady Kahoks edged away from Alton the later events to claim the title.

Collinsville finished with 79 points, Alton 71.

Edwardsville 52, Granite City South 27 and Granite City North 23.

The North mile relay team of Miller, Mary Ann Votoupal, Gieselman and Pebbles Burch won that event in a time of 4:38.6.

Other place-getters for Granite City in the girls meet were: Clara Bates of North fourth in the 100 yard dash, South's Julie DeFuntz third in the 440 and fifth in the long jump, North's McCann fifth in the 880, Bonnie Williams of North third in the mile run, North's 440 relay team second (South fifth), South third in the 880 medley (North fourth), Goode of South third in the 110 low hurdles (Moser of South fourth and North's Burch fifth), Goode third in the 220 low hurdles and Lisa Sarich fourth in the shot put.

Metric

"They're not going to give a District meet to any school without an all-weather track," he said. "For one thing, the coaches would scream about it since the times on an all-weather track are much faster. It's the time you're worried about when trying to qualify for the state meet."

The IHSA is in the process of sending out questionnaires concerning schools hosting Districts next season. One of the questions asks if a school is going to have a metric track. The other asks about all-weather surface.

"I can't answer it right now," said Smith, since we really don't know for sure yet.

Seven years ago, plans were made to install an all-weather track at Granite City South. Members of the coaching staff and school board members traveled to various parts of the country to see how other all-weather tracks were being used. The board seemed to be in favor of it, as were the coaches. But suddenly - and unexplainedly - the idea vanished from the scene.

At Madison, there are no plans to physically convert the track to metric at present. Head Coach Charles Steptoe said that instead, his school will re-mark the lanes so that metric races can be run.

The conversion to metric is evident throughout the United States - on the highways, in the schools. And now on the tracks.

O'Fallon's Holmes may have sounded the general feeling of area coaches when he said: "It'll be interesting, but I don't think next season is going to be too much fun. It's going to be pretty confusing at first."

Peace studies program here

An educator whose dedication to world peace and peace education cost him his position will be the featured speaker of the Peace Studies Program at SIUE Tuesday, May 1.

Bill Wickersham, research associate at the SIU at Carbondale School of Technical Careers, will speak on "The Implications of Einstein's Philosophy of Peace and World Order for Today's Higher Education." A former faculty member of the University of Missouri-Columbia, he lost his position there because of his protest of a missile site located near Whiteman Air Force Base in Missouri.

Through talks with missile operators, Wickersham said, he learned dangers involved with the arms — that it would take "only a couple of people" to launch a missile. Since that time, he has devoted himself to promotion of the idea of peace education, and has published several articles about the arms race. He originally presented the talk planned for SIUE at the "Albert Einstein Centennial Week" observance at SIUC. The talk will discuss "Einstein's interest in thinking of one's self as a world citizen."

Wickersham will speak in the Mississippi Room of the University Center, beginning at 2:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend free of charge.

STEALS CASH Stella Patrich, 2036a Grand Ave., reported Monday that a thief entered her home through a bedroom window and stole $54 from a hiding place.

Supplemental security pay to 4 million

About 4.2 million needy aged, blind and disabled people in the United States received $6.4 billion in Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments in 1978, new figures show. Of that amount, $2.3 billion was paid to aged recipients, $2.9 billion to the disabled, and $150 million to the blind.

Local needy residents benefited by receiving their share of SSI payments in 1978. In Madison County, 2,594 received $290,000. St. Clair County had 4,762 SSI recipients, paid, $593,000.

Clinton County had 226 recipients receiving $59,000. Washington County reported 180 needy people receiving $14,000, and Monroe County had 146 receiving $16,000 in benefits.

The maximum Federal SSI payment is $189.40 a month for one person and $284.10 for a married couple. Because of other income or living arrangements, most people get less than the maximum.

SSI is not the same as Social Security, even though the program is run by the Social Security Administration.

The money for SSI checks comes from general funds of the U.S. Treasury. Social Security benefits are paid from the contributions of workers, employers and self-employed people. Social Security funds are not used for SSI checks.

People who think they may be eligible for SSI, or who want more information, may visit the offices located at 650 Missouri Ave., East St. Louis 62201 or 218 W. Main St., Belleville 62221 or may call 274-4100. A toll-free number is available by dialing the operator and asking for Enterprise 1-555.

P.D.Q. Bach at final coffee concert

The final coffee concert in the chamber music series at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will be held May 7 at 8:15 p.m. in the University Club Restaurant. Appearing on the program will be 11 members of the SIUE music faculty, including: Janet Scott, flute; Herbert Oberlag, oboe; George Mellott, clarinet; Karen Strohmeier, bassoon; Marcia La Reau, trumpet; John Kendall, violin; Kent Perry, violin and viola; Robert Schieber, viola; Joseph Pival, cello; Marion Lampe, piano; and Linda Perry, piano and harpsichord.

The concert will open with Malcolm Arnold's "Divertimento for Flute, Oboe, and Clarinet," and will feature Oberlag, Mellott, and Ms. Scott. Following the opening number will be Maurice Moszkowski's "Suite for Two Violins and Piano, Opus 71" performed by Kendall and Perrys.

Marion Lampe will be spotlighted in two of Louis Moreau Gottschalk's works, "Souvenir de Puerto Rico" and "The Banjo."

A bit of music madness is in store for the coffee concert audience, according to Kent Perry. Highlighting the program will be "music" by the pseudo-composer, P.D.Q. Bach, who according to Perry, has been accurately described as a bright on the Bach family trees.

Proof of this will be heard in the "Sonata for Viola, Four Hands." Two musicians clumsily play the same viola, at opposite ends at the same time. In addition to conventional bows, the score calls for a hacksaw and 30 feet of rosined fishing line.

Assisting violists Robert Schieber and Kent Perry in this "questionable" performance will be Edwin B. Warren, musicologist, who will explain the unusual performance practices to the audience. Warren will be appropriately costumed for the occasion.

The concert will conclude with Bohuslav Martinu's "La Revue de Cuisine." The Perrys, Pival, Mellott, La Reau and Strohmeier will be featured in the Martinu work.

Audiences for the coffee concerts are able to enjoy the informal background of the restaurant, where seating is around tables with candlelight, coffee and special desserts which are served during intermission.

General admission to the concert is $2; senior citizens, $1.50; and students, $1. Tickets may be obtained through the University Ticket Office, Box 67, SIUE. Additional information on the coffee concerts, sponsored by the department of music and the Office of Cultural Arts and University Museum, may be obtained by contacting the department of music at 692-3900.

HURT IN CRASH

Grant probation

Rose Marie Masters, 19, of 2313 Miracle Ave., has been sentenced to serve one year on probation and make restitution of $417 after pleading guilty to theft in Madison County Circuit Court. Associate Judge Philip J. Rarick pronounced sentence.

The charge against her was reduced from burglary. She and a 26-year-old man were charged with taking money from a floor safe at the Taco Hut, 2968 Madison Ave., Feb. 3. She is a former employee of the restaurant, authorities said.

STEEL EMPLOYMENT

TOTALS 453,487 Domestic steel industry employment, stayed just about even in February for the second straight month, a report showed this week: 453,487 individuals — including 34,501 hourly employees — were engaged in production and marketing of steel during the month.

This compares with 453,339 employees — including 34,400 hourly workers — in January. However, February's employment figure was three percent ahead of the 439,817 total — including 339,346 hourly workers — registered during the same month of 1978.

In February, steelmakers in the U.S. paid out $901,171,000 in wages and salaries, bringing the total for the first two months of this year to $1,853,390,000. Total employment costs per hour for hourly employees, including fringe benefits, reached $15.48 in February. This cost averaged $13.30 in 1978.

What you should know about air conditioning

Some manufacturers of heating and cooling equipment have begun to use aluminum tubing in their heat pump and central air conditioning coils. Now aluminum is great for some things, like beverage cans, lawn chairs, etc. But coil tubing isn't one of them.

Lennox uses only dependable, proven copper tubing. Copper costs a little more, but the advantages are well worth it. Copper is easier to work with, less brittle, more flexible, easier to make tight joints with.

Lennox enjoys a high quality reputation unsurpassed in the heating and air conditioning industry. We didn't get it by skimping on materials. It's just one more reason to see your independent Lennox dealer for all your heating and air conditioning needs. Call:

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer
Annellen Smith, a member and past president of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club, is being endorsed by the club and District 14 for the office of second vice-president of the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women.

The new state officers will be elected at the Diamond Jubilee convention of the Illinois Federation when it convenes today at the Palmer House, Chicago.

Nineteen members of the Granite City club attending the 1979 state meeting are among more than 1,000 women representing 17 BPW districts throughout Illinois.

State President Lucille Ann Schott of Vernon Hills is presiding and will host a reception tonight for the BPW state board.

A meeting of the state executive board, a dinner, an art exhibit and a tour of the Chicago Public Library Cultural Center also are planned for conferees today.

Miss Smith served this year and last year as state membership chairman and under her leadership the federation sustained its membership level for two consecutive years, a first for the state BPW organization.

Serving as national representative to the convention will be Phyllis Harrison of Royal Oak, Mich., who is National BPW Federation second vice-president.

Mrs. Harrison will be the principal speaker at Friday night's awards banquet and will assist Miss Schott in presenting national recognition awards.

Jane Trahey, president of Trahey Advertising and author of "Jane Trahey on Women and Power" will be the keynote speaker at Friday's luncheon.

A reception for club presidents and presentation of Young Career Women and Individual Development Program participants and business sessions will precede the banquet tomorrow.

A membership awards breakfast, further business sessions, a Foundation awards luncheon, saluting past state presidents, receptions for the state president-elect and the Diamond Jubilee banquet are among the highlights arranged for Saturday.

Entertainment at the Saturday banquet will be provided by the Lakeshore Players, formerly known as Northwestern University's Wau-Mug Players.

A platform of legislative action and policy items will be presented for membership approval at the convention.

Proposed action items being considered include further work for the ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, quality day care centers and Federal Aid for displaced homemakers.

Policy items being proposed involve support for legislation and improved programs in the areas of consumer protection, crime prevention, alcohol and drug abuse, the handicapped and tax reform.

Barbara Cunningham of Granite City, Young Careerist winner of local and District 14 honors, will compete with other district winners for the state title during the convention.

The installation of new state officers at the Diamond Jubilee banquet Saturday will climax the four-day meeting.

Lola Wetton, president of the Granite City BPW Club, is heading the local delegation.

Among those in attendance are LaVelle Stephens, local president-elect, Rosalie Stern, first vice-president, Ollie Derr, second vice-president, and Sylvia Wright, Lili Marzluft, Carolyn Frye, Edna Kohlbrecher, Anna Mae Gates, Pauline Weir, Ruth Walk, Betty Nugent, Verna Lengyel, Hazel Rollins, Florence Moore, Wilma Large, Gladys Newman, Shirley Rapoff and Ruth Nicholas.

It's the Berries

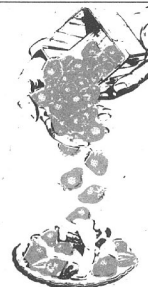

Men of all races have undoubtedly dined on berries of all descriptions since the beginning of time... neither the berry nor the palate requires cultivation for this gustatory pleasure. Speaking of the strawberry, a wise author once remarked, "God could doubtless have made a better berry, but doubtless He never did."

Though not cultivated by the ancients, this blushing member of the rose family has grown wild in the Old and New Worlds. Both Christian and Norse legends have it that infants who die are compensated by ascending to heaven in the form of strawberries. In Renaissance paintings, strawberries represented the fruit of the spirit and good deeds of righteousness.

Cardinal Thomas Wolsey was one of the first to perform the good deed of bringing strawberries to the table in company with cream, a practice which has happily been perpetuated through the years. Europeans began raising strawberries around the 15th century. In our country, Indians introduced strawberries to the early settlers, who found them growing profusely, especially in Virginia.

The name "STRAWBERRY" seems to have sprung from the fact that the berries were often found growing under mown hay in Europe.

Arrest woman

Elaine S. Rath, 29, of 2909 rear Hodges Ave., was charged with battery and criminal damage to property after incidents against Sherry Thomas, 2536 Washington Ave., Sunday night.

The victim alleged Mrs. Rath approached her at Hoppe's Tavern, 2907 Nameoki Road, at 11:30 p.m. Sunday, punched her with a fist and then forced her outside where she struck her again, knocked her to the ground and beat her.

The victim, who suffered cuts inside her lips and swelling, got on the back of a motorcycle with a man who drove her from the scene and took her home.

At 1:10 a.m. today, Mrs. Rath allegedly went to the victim's home, beat on the door and demanded to be allowed in. The victim called police and alleged the woman broke a window in the storm door. Police arrived and arrested Mrs. Rath.

She was released at 3:25 a.m. today after posting $200 cash bond.

Lecture on universities and the law

Harry Edwards, professor at the University of Michigan Law School, will lecture on "Higher Education and the Law" May 4 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Edwards will conduct an open session at 9:30 a.m. in the University Center in the location formerly occupied by the School of Business, focusing on general issues of higher education law. Issues to be considered include: tenure, student rights, discrimination and due process.

A second presentation is scheduled at 1 p.m. at the same location. This presentation will be primarily directed at college and university administrators. During the working session, Edwards will discuss the current state of the law as it pertains to legal rights of faculty and staff regarding conditions of employment and separation, promotion and tenure, and procedural process.

In addition, student rights relative to admissions, privacy and other issues will be discussed, along with the status of the "student-as-consumer" movement with its implications about the contractual obligations of universities.

Results of the Bakke case, as they affect affirmative action programming and the assistance to minorities also will be examined.

The lectures are part of a day-long schedule of activities planned by the university recognizing the 25th anniversary of the Supreme Court desegregation decision in the case of Brown v. Board of Education.

The Lighter Side

When hubbies visit the women's club

One of my all time bum trips happened the night when I went to club and took my husband along. My darling spouse wanted to see what my club meetings were all about so I invited him to go along on a night when the club was having a dinner meeting in one of the fancier places. It was a dressup deal and he agreed to wear a suit, something he would rather not do. That is putting it mildly. I think the man was born in blue jeans and getting him to consent to the ordeal of putting on a suit and tie took some doing. He finally came around to my way of thinking, but only after I assured him that there would be other men at the dinner dressed in similar attire.

We arrived that evening, my husband looking quite the gentleman in his spiffy suit. The first thing he noticed was the rather limited male attendance. He was the only man there.

I figured he would turn and walk out, but he ordered a drink and informed me that he would stick it out. I reminded him that the whole thing had been his idea.

Shortly thereafter one of my girlfriends arrived, husband in tow. I was delighted. At least my husband wouldn't be the only male present.

We all sat together and were having quite a time when the club president stood and blew my whole evening. My telling the story is my way of getting back at the lady for bruising my hubby's ego.

She stood and first introduced my girlfriend's husband, by name, and then said, "Also with us this evening is Cathey Jamison's husband."

Well, I choked on my drink and then began to laugh. Just a little at first, but before long I was hysterical with laughter. My husband was not amused by the introduction or my reaction. Shortly thereafter I stood and reintroduced him to the ladies.

Later, when we returned home, my husband told me that he didn't think he would go to club with me anymore. He told me that it was because he had been one of only two men there.

I think it's more a matter of his not wanting to ever be introduced as "Cathey Jamison's husband" again.

Unsolicited sales in home can be voided

Even though you have signed on the "dotted line," unwanted purchases bought from a door-to-door salesperson in many cases can be cancelled.

The Illinois Consumer Fraud Act provides for the consumer's right to rescind such a purchase.

According to the Illinois State Bar Association, the law provides that a buyer has three full business days in which to think over the purchase, if the price is $25 or more. This is true whether you pay cash or arrange to pay in installments.

Other important aspects of this "right to change your mind" are as follows:

1. The three-day period applies only when the sale results from a salesperson's direct call at your home without your having contacted him or her by any means.

2. You must be advised in advance of the right to cancel. The seller must give you a written notice of cancellation stating that you may cancel the sale within three days and also explain where and how to give notice of such cancellation. The three-day cancellation period does not start until the written notice of cancellation is furnished to the buyer.

3. If you decide to cancel your purchase contract, you must return the notice of cancellation to the seller, or provide the seller with acceptable notice no later than three business days after the sale. The seller is then obligated to return your money.

4. In addition to providing the timely notice, you must, of course, be prepared to give back the goods in their original condition.

Illinois law recognizes that some people are susceptible to a good sales pitch, but later find they have made a bad purchasing decision.

The ISBA says that resorting to the cancellation clause is the second best solution. It is better to ask the salesperson to give you adequate time to make a wise decision before agreeing to purchase.

PRIZE PERFORMERS—(clockwise from lower left), Roy Clark along with Loretta Lynn, Dottie West & Kenny Rogers. Plus Barbara Mandrell will be among the entertainers when "The 14th Annual Academy of Country Music Awards" airs live — a first for the special — Wednesday, May 2 on NBC.

Linda Lavin, the star of the hit series "Alice," guest-stars as herself and demonstrates her highly-polished musical talents in a segment of "The Mary Tyler Moore Hour," Sunday, April 29.

Sunday

Christine DeLisle stars as a California Beach Patrol police officer who is marked for murder in "Beach Patrol," the opening film in "The ABC Monday Night Movie Double Feature," airing April 30.

Monday

"Taxi" star, Marilu Henner, looks right at home in a real taxi, during a recent New York visit with some cabbies who can identify with the show. "Taxi" airs Tuesday, May 1 on ABC.

DENNIS SPARGER, director of Choral Activities at Belleville Area College. He will conduct the 60-voice chorus, accompanied by a 22-piece Baroque orchestra, for a concert at South's Memorial Auditorium Saturday at 8 p.m.

Bach featured in GC concert

Excerpts from J.S. Bach's "Mass in B minor" will be performed in Granite City and in Belleville by the Belleville Area College Community Chorus. The performance will be in the Granite City High School South auditorium on Saturday, April 28, at 8 p.m. The Belleville performance will be Sunday, April 29, at 2 p.m. at St. Peter's Cathedral, Harrison and Third streets.

The 60-voice chorus of auditioned adult voices will be conducted by A. Dennis Sparger and will be accompanied by a 22-piece Baroque orchestra.

Sparger notes that the "Mass in B minor" represents a summation of Bach's entire career as a composer of sacred music and is considered one of the masterpieces in the repertoire.

While the work was composed over a period of 24 years and incorporates borrowings and reworkings from some of his earlier works, it is believed likely that Bach never heard a complete performance of the mass.

Guest soloists for the performance will include Osceola Mueller of Belleville, soprano; Brenda Warren of St. Louis, mezzo soprano; Patricia Kennedy of Henderson, Kentucky, contralto; Jeral Becker of Carbondale, tenor; and Leonard Van Camp of Edwardsville, bass.

Admission for either performance is $2.50 and tickets will be available at the door.

Pump station operations are assailed

Allegations that the Metro-East Sanitary District pump station near the Monsanto plant in Sauget has been operated carelessly were made in a letter from the village of Sauget presented to the sanitary district's board of trustees at Tuesday morning's meeting in Washington Park.

Executive Director Wendell Wheadon told the trustees that he had not been aware of the allegation until just prior to the meeting. "I will investigate and take the proper action," Wheadon told the board.

The letter was from T.W. Dalton, plant manager for the village of Sauget's pump station and it alleged that on Saturday, April 14, in the afternoon, the water level at the pump house was several feet above normal.

Dalton said he and a contractor went to the sanitary district's pump station and found "none of the pumps was running and the operator had his head on the desk and was apparently asleep. We had to shake him to awaken him. He started the pump and the high water condition at our plant was corrected," the letter said.

It also alleged that on Thursday, April 19, at 9 a.m., high water was coming through the floor of the Sauget pump house and Dalton called the sanitary district pump station to ask if the pump was running.

"He said it was. I told him I could not hear it in the background. The operator said he was talking on the upstairs telephone.

"I asked him to go down and check his pump and I would hold the phone. The operator found the pump was not running and informed me he started it. I asked him what level it had reached and he said 15.7 feet. It is normally turned on at 14 feet," Dalton said in the letter.

He also alleged that the water level had been allowed on the second occasion to rise about 22 feet above normal.

"Operation of your Monsanto pump station in a manner as indicated by these two occasions jeopardizes our facilities and the operation of all the village industries. When action do you plan to prevent a recurrence?" Dalton asked in the letter.

Wheadon said he knew of an offense April 14, but did not believe there had been any on the 19th.

Also at the meeting, Wheadon reported he is initiating a program of safety training to meet requirements of the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) and workers will receive 15-minutes on-job training each week. A separate safety topic will be addressed at each meeting.

WOOD STOVE STOLEN
Ed Goclan, operator of the Hickory Hollow barbecue stand, 1023 Broadway, Venice, discovered at 4:55 p.m. Monday that a wood burning stove, valued at $200, had been stolen. The theft took place sometime after 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

YALE AVENUE FLOODING is shown in this photograph taken by Granite City Fourth Ward Alderman Warren Decatur following recent heavy rains. Decatur called for a moratorium on starting new homes in the Luaders Park Subdivision until streets and sewers have been completed, and the city council concurred in the motion. Homes currently under construction, including those shown in the photo, may be completed but the city's building inspector has been instructed not to issue any new building permits in the subdivision until city officials are satisfied with the streets and sewers.

Nameoki OKs grants

Agreements appropriating $34,050 in federal revenue sharing funds for use by several organizations were adopted by the Nameoki Town Board of Trustees Monday night.

The board appropriated $24,000 to the township's highway department to continue the environmental cleanup program. Highway Commissioner Frank Mehlich was told $2,000 per month would be appropriated to his department to continue the tree limb and trash pickup program for one year.

Another $1,300 was granted to Mehlich's department for health projects. The money will be disbursed when appropriate claims and vouchers for the money are presented and approved by the town board.

A total of $3,750 was granted to the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department for maintenance expenses, and $2,500 was earmarked to aid the Nameoki Volunteer Police Unit in meeting its expenses.

Five hundred dollars was approved to aid the State Park Place Street Light District pay its bills. Another $2,000 was approved for the Pontoon Beach-Nameoki Area branch of Coordinated Youth Services to continue its work.

Supervisor Harold Davis reported the township's tax levy should be known in a few days and said he will call an informational meeting of township residents to discuss the actual cost of the new sanitary sewers being installed in Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships.

He said there has been a shortage of information on which to base estimates of the actual cost to taxpayers of the sewers, but all needed figures should be available

DISORDERLY CHARGE FOR TALKATIVE MUTE

A St. Louis man who gave a card explaining that the bearer was a deaf mute to a clerk at the A&P Grocery store, 20th Street and Madison Avenue, Monday, and received $1 to help him, later spoke to officers outside the store.

Police said Donald R. Knudsen, 46, of St. Louis, had several "deaf mute" cards in a shirt pocket while conversing with officers and also appeared to be intoxicated, they alleged. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

While he was in custody at headquarters, it was found a warrant was outstanding against Knudsen for failure to appear on a traffic violation involving illegal possession of alcohol, allegedly occurring April 3, 1977 on West Pontoon Road.

South art students present their work

A delight to see

The art show put on by the students at Granite City South, held last Thursday evening, was indeed an event. The art being produced right here in our community appeared to delight all who saw it.

Paintings and drawings were hung all along the main corridor that evening. Some of the artists were on hand in order that the public could ask questions on some of the work. On hand as well were a couple of students doing caricatures.

Some of the young artists had their work for sale. One student made the comment that he hoped to purchase some canvas and oils if any of his work sold.

There was much to see and most was rated as being of a quality that would do any home proud. If paintings were your idea of art, you found many to choose from. If sculpture was of interest, there was plenty.

The variety of art at the show was almost without end, assuring that the show would be an interesting way to spend an evening. And it was free.

Hearings on air quality penalties

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will hold hearings in Chicago to give the public a chance to comment on proposed EPA regulations that may govern the assessment and collection of penalties against certain types of air polluters.

The penalties, required by Section 120 of the Federal Clean Air Act, apply to most stationary sources of air pollution, such as factories, refineries and power plants.

If proposed regulations are approved, EPA will assess the penalties through administrative rather than court action. In each case, the penalty will equal the amount that an air polluter saved by not complying with clean air standards.

The public hearings will be held May 7-8 in the Adams Room of the Midland Hotel, 172 W. Adams St., Chicago. On May 7, the hearings will be in two sessions, one starting at 9:30 a.m. and the other at 7:30 p.m. On May 8, the hearing will start at 9:30 a.m.

Persons interested in making a statement at these hearings are to file a notice of their intent to make a statement no later than 10 days prior to the hearing and, if practicable, submit five copies of their proposed statement no later than five days prior to the hearing.

The notice of intent and the copies of the proposed statement should be sent to: Robert Homiak, Division of Stationary Source Enforcement (EN 341), U.S. EPA, 401 M Street SW, Washington, D.C. 20460.

Home burglary

The home of Edward Long, 121 Granville St., Venice, was discovered last week to have been literally emptied. Items taken included: an electric compact refrigerator, a living room couch and two matching chairs, a coffee table with two matching smaller tables, a bar with two bar stools, and an antique fireplace mantle that had been mounted on the wall. Police found the back door had been forced open. The burglary occurred sometime after 4 p.m. on Tuesday.

LOOT MOBILE HOME

A wallet containing identification and a Public Aid card and a plastic rabbit-shaped bank containing $4 to $5 in change are the only things known missing after a burglary at the mobile home of Marie Haynes, 2901 Roosevelt Ave., early this week. The television set and refrigerator were damaged by the burglars. Entry was gained by crawling in a kitchen window. Clothing was thrown from the home onto the lawn outside.

Aluminum can recycling here

Quad-City area will now have an opportunity to earn cash while combating litter by recycling aluminum cans. Beginning Friday, May 4, Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Co. will open a new mobile unit recycling stop at the Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center, Nameoki and Pontoon Roads, Granite City. This mobile unit stop will be open every Friday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., at which time the mobile unit driver will collect, weigh and pay recyclers 20 cents per pound for used household aluminum. "To identify aluminum cans, just use a magnet. A magnet does not stick to aluminum," a spokesman relates.

Reynolds pays 20 cents a pound for aluminum beverage cans and other clean household aluminum items such as pie plates, foil, frozen food and dinner trays and dip, pudding and meat containers. Certain other items, including aluminum siding, gutters, storm door and window frames and lawn furniture tubing, are also worth 20 cents a pound if properly prepared. This aluminum must be free of all foreign materials, cut to lengths not exceeding three feet, and not mixed with cans. The Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Co. plant is at 110 Iowa Ave., Belleville, (235-0100).

The Spinal Column

By DR. RICHARD C. REINHARDT

REHABILITATIVE SPINAL CARE

The difference between simple relief care and rehabilitative spinal care is explained to each new patient so that he or she can have the proper background to make an intelligent decision regarding the treatment program.

Dr. Reinhardt

Relief care is simple and can usually be completed in a small number of visits. The main objective is to reduce spinal stress until symptoms disappear. While relief from pain results, it is only temporary at best.

The majority of patients at our center are on a full rehabilitative spinal care program. Two main objectives are desired. First, spinal stress is totally removed through the use of spinal adjustments over a period of time. Secondly, the spinal muscles and ligaments are strengthened and stabilized under a program of chiropractic therapy.

An intensive care program involving dietary modification, a basic exercise program, along with chiropractic adjustments and therapy brings about the desired results. Close monitoring or progress through x-rays, contour analysis and various exams eliminate any guesswork. The end result is a spine that is properly stabilized against any further degeneration.
